President OK's Million-Dollar Richland County Road Project

MADISON TO HALT RELIEF DURING JULY

$3,100 in Debt, Township to Take 'Holiday,' Leave 1,800 Shift for Selves.

LAST ORDERS GIVEN OUT

Trustees Assert Law Forbids Them to Go Into Debt to Care for Needy.

Richland county's relief situation became more involved today with the announcement by Madison township trustees that they will "close shop" during the month of July and approximately 1,800 persons on relief will be without food or aid of any kind until Aug. 1.

Today, faced with the fact that they are already $3,100 in debt and that the law specifically forbids them incurring any indebtedness, they issued an order to Relief Director Earl Nist to cut off all grocery orders and other forms of relief for the township for the month of July.

City Continues On 'Cuff.'

In the meantime however, Mansfield faced with equally as serious a problem, and unpaid food bills already totaling $30,000 continued to meet the costs "on the cuff" to provide subsistence for 5,000 indigent persons in the city.

City officials however, said today that "so far" no consideration had been given to the reducing of the grocery orders since Mansfield relief costs per person are already among the lowest in the state.

The final grocery orders for township clients amounting to $1,800 are being issued today and tomorrow.

No Help From City.

Nist said that he would have to follow the instructions of the trustees. He also said orders to township relief clients cannot be issued from city relief funds.

Approximately 400 families, or one out of every four persons in the township, are affected by the order.

W. F. Beam, chairman of the board of trustees, said that there is no alternative under the law. They have already exceeded their authority by $3,100 for which they may be held personally responsible, he said.

"The law instructs us to give relief to township indigents, but provides no way for our raising funds

JAPS PROMISE

Won't Bomb 'Open' Cities in China, Pope Informed.

VATICAN CITY— (INS) —Japan has promised to cease bombing "open" cities in China as the result of an appeal by Pope Pius, Osservatore Romano, the official organ of the Holy See, said today.

Using vigorous language, according to Osservatore, the pope urged Tokyo to "halt useless butchery and the bombing of 'open' Chinese cities."

Apostolic Delegate Marella conveyed the pope's plea to Foreign Minister Kozushige Ugaki in Tokyo.

Ugaki gave assurances, according to Osservatore, that everything would be done to assure the safety of civilian populations and non-combatants.

CIVIL WAR VETS RECALL BATTLE

2,000 Treat For Last Time On Gettysburg Battlefield.

GETTYSBURG, Pa.—(AP)— Two thousand aged Civil war veterans, tenting for the last time on the old camp ground, turned back the pages of the nation's history 75 years today to the stirring events of the great conflict between the north and the south.

Across the same dusty Pennsylvania road that once divided the union, the remnants of two mighty armies faced each other again as they did nearly three score years ago in the battle that marked the turning point of the war in which many of them fought.

But it was not as the boys in blue and the striplings in gray that the old soldiers met—on this 75th anniversary of the battle of Gettysburg—but as comrades.

Turner For Air Job?

Col. Roscoe Turner, noted airplane speed pilot, is being considered as possible administrator of the Civil Aeronautics Authority expected to be set up shortly by President Roosevelt. The bill, signed by the president, consolidates the government's control over aviation into one group with an administrator, a safety board of three members and a five-man aviation authority.

14 FIRMS BID ON FIRE EQUIPMENT

Buffalo Company Low on New Pumper; Control Board Studies Offers.

The city board of control today was studying the bids of 14 firms submitted on the various equipment to be purchased to bolster the city's fire fighting equipment.

The bids, opened yesterday by the board which is comprised of Mayor Claude M. Hunter and Service-Safety Director Tracy C. Styert, included six proposals on a new pumper and eight bids on 16 new fireplugs which are to be purchased.

Styert said neither contract would be awarded for at least a week until the board had had time to study all bids.

Specifications on the pumper call for a cab truck equipped with a 750-gallon centrifugal pump having not less than a 750-gallon per minute capacity. It is to be painted red with gold striping.

Specifications on the hydrants call for five four-inch plugs with five-inch valves and valve boxes, and 11 five-inch plugs with six-inch valves and valve boxes.

Of the six firms which submitted bids on the fire truck, the Buffalo Fire Appliance corporation, of Buffalo, N. Y., was low with a bid of $8,220, which was $155 lower than the closest competitor, the Mack-International Motor Truck company, Allentown, Pa., which bid $8,375.

Other bidders were the Peter Pirsch and Sons, Kenosha, Wis.;

NYE HOLDS ON TO EARLY LEAD

Senator Leads by 7,000 as Last of Vote Comes In.

FARGO, N. D.—(AP)—Although late returns from scattered precincts whittled his margin, U. S. Sen. Gerald P. Nye of North Dakota continued to hold some of the early lead he piled up over William Langer in their contest for the Republican nomination for senator.

Nye at one time was about 15,000 votes ahead of his Non-partisan league opponent in Tuesday's primary election, but the advantage dwindled rapidly.

With 2,144 of the state's 2,260 precincts reported, Nye had 87,762 votes, Langer 81,460.

GILEAD LAKES OPEN

COLUMBUS — (AP)— Two small state-owned lakes at Mt. Gilead will be reopened for fishing July 1, Lawrence Wooddell, state conservation commissioner, said today. Fishing was banned during the winter and spring spawning season.

MARKET BOOM CONTINUES AT DIZZY PACE

3,000,000 Share Day Looms as Traders Start Furious Buying Spree.

TICKER RUNNING BEHIND

Exchange in Bedlam as Shares Change Hands in Blocks of 5,000; Prices Climb.

BULLETIN

NEW YORK — (INS) — After starting out at a dizzy rate, with prices again surging upward, the hectic pace of the stock market slowed up somewhat shortly after noon today and—due to profit taking—some of the early gains were lost. Brokers said, however, that the market was holding its own in view of the extended advance recorded earlier in the day.

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
(INS Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK—Amid a furore of excitement reminiscent of the boom days, the New York stock exchange was a bedlam today as trading whirled at a dizzy pace on the heels of yesterday's record-breaking volume for the year of 2,658,000 shares at prices 1 to 7 points higher.

The ticker, running five to ten minutes behind in recording transactions in the first hour's trading, resorted to "flashing" prices.

Prices Rise Again.

Prices were again higher, and buying was fast and furious. The floor of the exchange seethed with activity as brokers rushed in and out with fresh orders.

At 11 a. m. the ticker was running almost ten minutes behind.

Immediately the gong sounded, opening business for the day, the excitement broke loose. A flood of orders were dumped on the market.

United States Steel, a bell wether on the stock list, opened with a bang, a block of 5,000 shares going up at 58, up 1⅛. Other blocks of 5,000 changed hands as the pace of trading became accelerated.

The market has been on the rise since a week ago Monday, when, for the first time since May 10, more than 1,000,000 shares were dealt in.

Observers expressed the opin-

HUNT 'ARSENAL'

Kansas Prison Guards Learn of Wholesale Escape Plot.

LEAVENWORTH, Kas.—(INS)— The Kansas State penitentiary at Mansing, five miles south of here, rested on a virtual powder keg, officials feared today as they investigated reports of a wholesale escape plot.

Large supplies of explosives and weapons are reported to have been smuggled into the prison and hidden in preparation for the break.

Fourteen desperate convicts have already been placed in solitary confinement and guards continued to grill other prisoners.

The entire prison force is said to have been engaged in the systematic hunt for a cache of weapons, tearing bedding apart and sounding walls.

BEAUTY SLAIN

Jersey Girl, 24, Found Dead on Lonely Roadside.

ELIZABETH, N. J.—(INS)—With all indications pointing to murder, or a death leap to foil an attempted attack, the body of Irene Gaertner, beautiful 24-year-old resident of nearby Newark, was found today on a lonely suburban road on the outskirts of this city.

The victim's skull was fractured and her knees and elbows bruised and scraped, indicating that the automobile from which she was thrown or jumped was traveling at high speed.

There's Life in the Old Boys Yet!

During the Civil war days there was little time to sit around and take things easy. But now, at Gettysburg, Pa., scene of the famous Civil war battle and site of the present 75th anniversary celebration of the Blue and Gray, Tim Flaherty, 95, of Miami, Fla., a former Union soldier, finds plenty of time. In fact, Flaherty feels so good he puts on a dance for some friends at the battlefield. President Roosevelt was scheduled to participate in the ceremonies on July 3.

Bellville Plans Jubilee, New Bridge to Open Soon

Span Expected to Be In Use by Fourth; Dedication Arrangements Mapped by Residents.

Bellville's new $47,000 bridge on route 13 probably will be open for Fourth of July traffic, Boyd Wierman, state highway engineer in Richland county, said today.

Although federal highway officials have not approved the new structure, the bridge will be ready for use by Saturday, Wierman said. It was built by the Purdy Construction company, Mansfield, in about six months.

Meanwhile, a committee of Bellville residents, headed by A. A. Shafer, is arranging elaborate dedication ceremonies to mark completion of the bridge for which Bellville business men campaigned for months.

Ask Ashbrook to Speak.

Shafer said today that the dedication probably would be held in about two weeks, after the bridge has been opened to traffic. Congressman William A. Ashbrook, a representative of the state highway department, and possibly other prominent public officials will speak on the dedication program, it was said.

The new bridge, which replaces an old steel structure over Clear Fork creek, is of concrete and steel construction. It is 146 feet long and 40 feet wide, providing for a five-foot sidewalk in addition to the highway. About 155 tons of steel were used in the structure.

MARTIN, LEWIS CONFER TODAY

Sees CIO Chief To Air Troubles In Auto Union.

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— Homer C. Martin, president of the United Automobile Workers of America, will lay his troubles this afternoon before John L. Lewis, chairman of the Committee for Industrial Organization. Martin was en route here from Detroit.

Although Lewis has refused to comment on the factional fight within the CIO's fourth largest union, it is known that he is only lukewarm towards Martin and does not approve of his summary suspension of five high ranking U. A. W. A. officials.

JERUSALEM — (INS) — Armed with bayonets, military and police reserves patrolled Jerusalem and other Holy Land trouble centers today following violent mass demonstrations against the hanging yesterday of Solomon Ben Yosef, 18-year-old Jew, for firing at an Arab-owned bus.

Martial law was reinforced in Arab-Jewish areas and a strict curfew was enforced here.

N. Y. Pastor Killed In Fall From Hotel Window.

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—Rev. William A. Marchant, who was assigned Monday to serve as pastor of the church of St. Dominick in Detroit, fell to his death today from a room on the fifth floor of the Hotel Commodore.

A torn curtain indicated to police that Father Marchant lost his balance while opening a window.

TWO INJURED

Man and Girl Hurt When Car Fails to Negotiate Curve.

BUCYRUS—Two persons were injured, one critically, when the car in which they were riding struck two guard rails, after failing to make a curve, five miles west of Bucyrus last night on route 30.

The two occupants, Gordon Harris, 33, Cleveland, and Miss Orilla Kelly, 24, Scotia, N. Y., are both in City hospital here. Harris suffered a fractured skull, fractured right shoulder, a dislocated left shoulder, and other injuries. His condition was reported critical. Miss Kelly suffered minor lacerations.

According to Deputy Sheriff Elwood Jacobs, Harris was traveling west on route 30 at a high rate of speed. Unable to make a curve near the Oceola bridge, the car skidded off the road, struck a guard rail, and was knocked across the road where it struck another guard rail. The car skidded about 300 feet but did not turn over, Deputy Jacobs reported.

ARRAIGN DAVEY AIDS FRIDAY

Columbus Court to Hear Pleas On Campaign Collection Charge.

COLUMBUS —(INS)— Will P. Stephenson, assistant attorney general, said the seven aids of Governor Davey indicted by a special grand jury for violation of the state civil service laws, will be arraigned Friday at 9 a. m. before Judge Charles A. Leach.

He said no attempt was made to serve capias on the seven men, but that they had agreed to appear voluntarily.

Those indicted were M. Ray Allison, state finance director; Thomas E. Dye, assistant purchasing agent; J. Freer Bittinger, treasurer of the Davey for governor committee; Danied S. Earhart, attorney-examiner for the sales tax division; Charles O. Wilson, gasoline tax division chief; Frank W. Mowery and J. L. Kennedy, state building superintendents.

NO SALE HERE

LOS ANGELES —(AP)— William Zion, 53, waited till street car No. 1324 came along.

He boarded the car, showed a bill of sale to the conductor for No. 1324, and demanded his property.

The conductor referred Zion to the police bunko detail which now seeks the "salesmen" who took Zion's $100.

'GOOD NEIGHBOR' PLEA RENEWED

Roosevelt, Laying Cornerstone at Fair, Urges Nations to Reaffirm Friendships.

(By United Press)

NEW YORK—President Roosevelt reaffirmed his "good neighbor" policy in international relations today in a brief speech to an audience of foreign, national, state and city officials on the grounds of the 1939 world fair.

The president drove here from Hyde Park, N. Y., to lay the cornerstone of the fair's federal building.

He urged the foreign officials to induce their countrymen to visit the United States in greater numbers so as to develop greater understanding and friendship between this and other nations.

"All of us realize, of course," he said, "that the affairs of many arts of the world are, to put it politely, somewhat distraught. Such a condition necessarily accompanies wars and rumors of wars."

The president said that while the people of the western hemisphere were "happily removed" from the immediate pressure of war, they were nevertheless concerned "in a larger sense" because of the good relations the United States enjoys with all nations. The good neighbor policy, he said, was developed because the American republics were "against war" and had agreed "quietly to discuss" difficulties that may arise.

RAIDS KILL 90 IN BARCELONA

Two Insurgent Bombers Cause Injuries to 140 Others.

BARCELONA — (INS) — Two insurgent air raids in the vicinity of Barcelona, the worst in weeks, today killed 90 persons and wounded 140.

Ten tri-motored bombers heavily attacked the suburban town of Badalona at 9:30 a. m. then soared off to the east leaving 50 killed and 90 wounded.

Arms Leak Tiff Brews New Crisis

Chamberlain Strength Given Test as Fight Still Rages.

LONDON — Prime Minister Chamberlain announced today that the house of commons committee on privileges had decided that a special military court committed a breach of privilege in summoning Duncan Sandys to tell where he got secret anti-aircraft defense data.

The army court, constituted to find and plug the leak, already had bowed to the house in a stirring conflict between parliament and army—a quarrel which raised the possibility that the Chamberlain government might stand or fall on the outcome.

The court of three high army officers met briefly and then adjourned until after Commons completes its own inquiry into the affair involving privileges of its members under Britain's dread official secrets act.

It previously had cancelled a summons against Duncan Sandys, Conservative M. P., whose possession of secret data touched off the struggle. Now the military tribunal will be idle until after a select committee of the house of commons makes its report.

Although Sandys, son-in-law of Winston Churchill and an officer of the territorial army, was not present at the court session, another territorial officer was understood to have been on hand to face charges he let out anti-aircraft data.

The select committee was to begin this afternoon, after debate in the house, to investigate the situation created by Sandy's allegation that he was threatened with prosecution under the official secrets act.

Sandys charged he was threatened by the attorney general, Sir Donald Bradley Somervell, on the orders of War Secretary Leslie Hore-Belisha.

It was reliably reported the cabinet, at a meeting yesterday, decided to accept full responsibility for the "official secrets case."

ARMS RACE ON

U. S. Britain, France Agree on New Battleship Limit.

LONDON — (INS) — The flag was dropped for a world naval race today as Great Britain, the United States, and France broke away from the limitations of the London pact and agreed on a 45,000-ton limit for battleships.

Announcement that the three nations had invoked the pact's escalator clause and agreed on a new top for super-battlewagons was made in the house of commons by Alfred Duff-Cooper, first lord of the admiralty.

The 16-inch limit on gun calibres will remain unchanged, said Duff-Cooper.

"The 45,000-ton figure was higher than his majesty's government desired," the first lord commented, "but it was the lowest figure on which agreement could be reached."

DOUBLE TRAGEDY

Violent Death Strikes Ohio Family Twice In Week.

BOWLING GREEN—(AP)—Violent death struck the family of Earl Barlekamp, Risingsun farmer, for the second time within a week when his 11-year-old son, Dale, was trampled by horses last night. Another son, Glen, two, was drowned in a cistern at the home last Friday.

970 TO GET JOBS ON HUGE WPA PROJECT

Federal Government to Spend $699,000 for Labor on County Program.

EARLY START PREDICTED

Jobs Expected to Help Solve Relief Problem; County Puts Up $300,000.

Approval of Richland county's $1,000,000 WPA project within the next 10 days was virtually assured today when President Roosevelt placed it on the eligible list of work relief projects in the 17th congressional district.

Approximately 460 men will be put to work on the county roads and bridges as soon as federal funds are released. County Engineer Howard C. Sword said. At its peak, the blanket project will provide jobs for approximately 970 men.

U. S. To Spend $699,000.

Needing only the approval of the comptroller general, which is little more than a formality, the project will bring $699,254 into the county in federal funds.

Set up as a blanket program, the project will include improvements to roads and bridges, work on streets, sewers, sidewalks and parks in Mansfield and Shelby, and possible grading of school grounds in Madison township.

The federal government's grant of approximately $700,000 will be supplemented by more than $300,000 in county road funds and sponsor contributions from the cities and townships which benefit from the project.

Early Start Seen.

While County Engineer Howard C. Sword saw the possibility of a slight delay in starting work on the project if the program does not clear the comptroller's office as expected, he indicated that work would be underway in rural districts immediately after the release of funds.

Jobs created as a result of the approval of the program are expected to go a long way toward solving the relief problem in Mansfield and Madison township where the situation has become critical due to the lack of funds.

Proposed township and county road improvements, which would be first on the list, would absorb most of the 512 men in the county who have been certified for work relief projects by relief officials.

Drafted a little more than a month ago, the huge blanket program received prompt action from the state and national WPA offices because of the lack of federal projects in the Richland county area, county officials said.

County Engineer Sword mapped the project after state WPA officials had complained that the county's failure to obtain federal funds was due to the absence of available work relief projects.

Moody, Jacobs to Meet In English Net Title Finals

WIMBLEDON, Eng. — (INS) — Mrs. Helen Wills Moody and Helen Jacobs — fellow-Californians—will meet Saturday for the all-England women's tennis championship in resumption of one of the longest and most dramatic feuds in the history of the courts.

They earned a place against each other for the sixth time in major competition today when Mrs. Moody advanced into the finals by beating Frau Hilda Sperling, of Nenmark, 12-10, 6-4, and Miss Jacobs took her semi-final match from Alice Marble, another Californian, 6-4, 6-4.

Hearing Ends, Examiner to Weigh Mansfield NLRB Case

Albert L. Lohm, trial examiner for the National Labor Relations Board, today had under advisement testimony in charges of unfair labor practices lodged against the Ohio Brass company following the discharge of Tony Colace, a casting grinder.

Whether Colace's reinstatement will be ordered will depend on recommendations by the trial examiner to the NLRB at Washington. Should the board rule in favor of Colace, the company may appeal to federal courts.

There was no indication as to when a decision might be expected. It will come from the board, when it is made.

The specific question up for decision is whether Colace's discharge Nov. 19, 1937 was prompted by Colace's activities at the plant in behalf of the United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers union, a CIO affiliate, or for proper reasons.

The company contends Colace was a "troublesome" employe, that he was responsible for several disturbances in his department and frequently quarreled with his foreman. His superiors were not aware that Colace took steps to unionize workmen and had obtained 13 memberships, the company contends.

Hearing of the case was conducted in the Richland county probate courtroom. It lasted for two and a half days.

Max W. Johnstone, Cleveland attorney, was counsel for the labor board, and the law firm of Day, Young, Veach and Lefever of Cleveland, and William McE. Weldon of Mansfield, represented the company.

Trusty at Reformatory Flees Five Days Before Parole Date

Two Mansfield reformatory trusties, one of whom would have been paroled in five days, staged a successful escape yesterday and were being hunted by police throughout Ohio today. They were the fourth and fifth to disappear from the institution grounds this week.

Superintendent Arthur L. Glattke said one of the inmates who had been sent to the home of one of the guards to mow the grass had stolen the guard's car and was believed to have taken the other inmate, who was working in the orchard, with him.

The stolen automobile, owned by a guard Wilbur Johnson, was found abandoned one mile west of Bucyrus on U. S. route 30-N, early today by the sheriff of Crawford county.

Glattke said the fugitives were Frank Voss, and Tom Ferris, both 20. Voss was received from Tuscarawas county Dec. 5, 1936, and was serving from one to 20 years for auto theft. He was to have been paroled July 5. Ferris, received at the reformatory March 18, 1937, from Lucas county was under sentence from one to 15 years for burglary.

Glattke said Voss had been sent to the Johnson home at 2 p. m. to mow the lawn. He said the inmate finding no one at home had apparently forced open a rear door and located the keys to the Johnson car. It was believed that Ferris who was working as a trusty in the farm orchard had accompanied Voss, for both inmates were reported missing about the same time.

Voss, by making his escape yesterday forfeits the right of parole and faces the possibility of additional time when captured, Glattke said.

TWO POPULAR PLAYS AMONG LATEST BOOKS

Additions to Library Include 'Golden Boy,' Stage Hit, and 'Dangerous Corners.'

Seven new books of fiction and 15 of non-fiction were received at the Public library this week. Of the non-fiction, two are plays that have been popular. Clifford Odets' "Golden Boy," which was a hit as a stage play and has been puchased for motion pictures, is one of them. The other is J. B. Priestley's "Dangerous Corner," a play in three acts which develops the idea that telling the whole truth is like rounding a dangerous corner on two wheels.

The Mansfield Women of the Moose presented the library with the volume, "Great Indian Chiefs" by Albert Britt, in which the author presents the American Indian as a real human being, showing his tragic and hopeless struggle against the land-hungry white man by depicting episodes in the lives of the great chiefs.

"The 168 Days" by Joseph Wright Alsop and Turner Castledge is the inside story of the battle between President Roosevelt and congress over the proposal to enlarge the Supreme court.

Elizabeth Hawes, one of the few American women who rank on a par with the internationally known French fashion designers, is author of the book "Fashion Is Spinach." It tells of her struggles for recognition and her achievement of leadership in the world of fashion.

Other non-fiction includes:

"The Labor Movement in America" by Clark and Simon; "The Guggenheims," by Harvey O'Connor; "Birds Against Men," by Halle; "Robbery by Mail," Baarslag; "Story of Earthquakes and Volcanoes," Johnson; "Strange Sea Shells and Their Stories." Verrill; "Strange Birds and Their Stories." Verrill; "Elementary Principles of Diesel-Engine Construction," compiled by Brown & Ziegenhagen; "Sheet Metal Work," Neubecker; "Tool Steel Simplified," Palmer, and "Complete Book of Modern Crafts," by Reynolds.

Among the fiction volumes is "Towers In The Mist," by Elizabeth Houdge. It is the result of her self-questioning about the men, women and children who lived in Oxford centuries ago. The story of Queen Elizabeth's reign centers around the family of Canon Leigh of Christ church and brings in the famous people of the time.

"No Stepping Backward" by Vera Wheatley is a novel of English people, and of one Gerda Hazeldine whose unhappy marriage to Bogardus Fleming leads her into a difficult situation from which there is no retreat.

FOOTBALL SITUATION AT PITT ISN'T WHAT IT USED TO BE.

Detroit Homers Hand Indians 4 to 3 Setback

Defeat Cuts Cleveland's Lead to Three Games; Feller Faces Kennedy Today.

CLEVELAND—(U P)—When the American league all-star team was announced members of the Cleveland Indians expressed resentment because Hank Greenberg of the Detroit Tigers had been selected at first base over Hal Trosky of the Tribe.

Today the Indian players had healthier respect for the prowess of Greenberg and were willing to concede that perhaps his selection was justified.

Cut Tribe's Lead.

It was Greenberg who wielded the big bat that handed Cleveland a 4 to 3 defeat here yesterday. The Indians' loss coupled with New York's twin victory cut the Tribe's league lead to three full games.

For seven innings Mel Harder had the Tigers at his mercy. Over that stretch he gave up only five hits and not a run. Then in the eighth he made the fatal mistake of "grooving" pitches to the Tiger sluggers and before the side was retired Detroit had pushed across four runs and clinched the victory.

Billy Rogell opened the Tiger eighth with a circuit drive over the right field wall. Then Dixie Walker was given a base on balls. Charley Gehringer followed with a sharp bounder to Trosky and in attempting to force Walker at second the Tribe's first sacker pulled Lyn Lary off the base with a high throw and both runners were safe. At this juncture Greenberg drove one of Harder's offerings out of the park to send home three more runs. It was Hank's 21st home run of the campaign.

Cleveland scored twice in the first inning and added another run in the sixth.

The Indians touched Elden Auker, Tiger submarine hurler, for 12 hits, but couldn't get the safeties when they meant runs. Cleveland had 12 runners stranded on the sacks.

The victory was the first Auker had been able to score since April 26. In the interim he had been beaten seven straight times.

Averill Hits Three.

Earl Averill, the American league's top batsman, continued his brilliant hitting by garnering three safeties in five trips to the plate.

In a desperate effort to take the concluding game of the series Manager Oscar Vitt will send Blazing Bob Feller to the mound for the Indians today, even though the Iowa youngster has had only two days' rest. Vernon Kennedy was to hurl for the Tigers.

Pitches Third No-Hit Game

The third baseball pitcher in the city to hurl a no-hit game is Slabaugh, who pitched the Tigers to a 10 to 1 victory over the White Sox in an Intermediate league game at the Fairground yesterday. Slabaugh gave up a walk in the second inning when the Sox pushed their lone tally on three errors. The win enabled the Tigers to climb into third place in the standings. Freheit cracked out two triples to pace the winners' attack.

The Senators chalked up their third consecutive win yesterday at the Fairground by drubbing the Yanks 10 to 4, behind Perry's two-hit pitching. The winners scored nine runs in the first two innings to cinch the affair.

Canzols Play Three Games This Week-End

Invade Lexington Sunday; Face Canton Club In Twin Bill Monday at League Park.

LING'S CANZOLS will be trying for three victories in diamond appearances over the holiday week-end.

On Sunday the Oilmen will invade Lexington to face the Whitney Service Station outfit, and then will return to League park to provide Mansfield fans with a double-barreled program on Monday.

The Canzols' opponent for the League park tussle will be the touted Aultman Grocers of Canton. The first game is scheduled for 1 p. m.

Composed of Semi-Pro Players.

The Canton aggregation is composed of several outstanding semi-pro performers, among them Blankership, a pitcher who had a trial with Canton in the Mid-Atlantic league this spring, and Rueschman, the club's leading hitter. According to reports Rueschman is clouting the sphere at a fast .500 clip.

Manager Jeff Holmquist said today that Karl Theaker will probably draw the pitching assignment against the Whitney club. The Mansfield club will use Gil Weigant and Dave Arbaugh in Monday's doubleheader.

'Masters Face Test Friday

The Schoolmasters, defending champions in the Y. M. C. A. Club softball league, will face another stiff assignment Friday when they face the Zent's Radios in one of the weekly games at North park.

While the 'Masters attempt to register a victory at the expense of the Radios, the Local 40 faces the Catholic Foresters at Liberty park, the Hermit club tackles the Junior Association of Commerce at Davey field, and the Wesco club plays the Knights of Columbus at Prospect park.

Giants Hammer Philadelphia to Increase Lead to Three Games

By PAT ROBINSON
(INS Sports Writer)

NEW YORK—The late John McGraw had a simple system for winning pennants. "It's easy," McGraw used to say. "Just break even with the good ones and murder the bums."

That was McGraw's way of saying "Never give a sucker an even break," and the record shows that his Giants never showed any mercy toward the tailenders.

Bill Terry seems to be following in the footsteps of his old boss. To date the Giants heve played less than .500 ball against their main contenders but against the second division outfits their record is almost .800.

The advantages of the system were shown once more no later than yesterday when the Giants knocked off the helpless and hapless Phillies, 9-1 and 6-2, to increase their lead over the Reds to three full games.

Ott Hits 19th.

Schumacher and Melton contributed the elbowing and Mel Ott kicked in with his 19th homer.

Meanwhile, some great relief pitching by Bill Swift plus some timely hitting by Paul Waner gave the Pirates a 5-4 nod over the Reds and moved the winners up to third place ahead of the slipping Cubs who fell before Lefty Weiland and the rest of the Cards, 10-5.

The Yanks, who always have been strong believers in the system of slaughtering the weaklings, hammered out 10-0 and 13-1 victories over the Athletics, thereby causing the aged Connie Mack and a group of what he is pleased to call pitchers no end of grief

Pitch Four-Hitters.

Lefty Gomez and Bump Hadley each uncorked a four-hitter and both gave promise of better things to come. Joe Gordon, who has been on a batting orgy lately, blew himself to six hits before the A's finally got him out. Among his contributions were his sixth and seventh homers. Red Rolfe got his fifth homer, Lou Gehrig his 13th and Bill Dicky his 12th. These were the chief wallops in a 27-hit barrage.

The Tigers put on a late four-run rally to nose out the Indians, 4-3, thus reducing the Indians' lead to three games over the Yanks. Homers by Bill Rogell and Hank Greenberg paced the Tiger uprising.

The Red Sox kept themselves very much in the picture with a 6-4 decision over the Senators which was aided no little by Joe Cronin's seventh homer and Jimmy Foxx's 22nd.

And the poor Brownies got off to a good start but wound up as usual on the short end, the White Sox putting on a six-run drive to trim them, 9-5. Messrs. Rensa, Radcliff and Owen said it with homers for the Sox.

Brooklyn again derived little comfort from floodlights as the Dodgers dropped a 7-6 night game to the Boston Bees. Camilli, Brooklyn's first baseman, slapped two homers.

Legion Juniors to Strut Their Stuff at Fairground

Face Elyria In Two Games Over Week-End; Durant's Club Meets Coshocton Sunday.

MANSFIELD'S youthful baseball talent will be offered an opportunity to strut its stuff this week-end when the American Legion Juniors play a pair of games at the Fairground.

The Juniors will open their activities when they meet the Legion Juniors of Elyria in a single tilt at 3 p. m. Saturday, and then will wind up by playing the same outfit on the Boosters' day program at the Fairground Sunday. The second affair will be played at 1 p. m., prior to the Central Ohio semi-pro league game between the Mansfield American Legion and Coshocton clubs.

Victory Chances Bright.

Dewey Durant's Legionnaires chances of chalking up a victory over Coshocton Sunday are rather bright since the invading club has been weakened considerably due to the promotion of several players into professional ranks. Three of the club's mainstays, Chappie Geygan, Al Veigel, who formerly pitched for the Mansfield Red Sox, and Jim Patterson have left the team.

If Mansfield, which at present shares fourth place with Coshocton, wins Sunday, the club has an excellent chance of jumping into third place in the Central Ohio league standings.

Durant announced today that Donald Dudley will toe the mound against Coshocton. He will also have Bob Patterson and Harold Geiger available for duty. The Legion club treks to Logan for a game Monday.

Clubs Share Loop Lead

Nick's Place and the Dominion Electric softball clubs registered victories yesterday to remain in a tie for first place in the Y. M. C. A. Commercial softball league.

The Electrics dumped the Page Dairys, 10 to 8, at Liberty park and Nick's Place walloped the Hartman Electrics, 11 to 2, at Davey Field. Goler cracked out a home run with two on deck in the fourth inning to give the Dominion club a lead it never relinquished. Tom Farrell also hit two homers for the winners, and Shaffer, who set the Dairy's down with eight well-scattered hits, add another circuit blow.

Nick's place grabbed a 3 to 1 lead in the fourth frame to coast through.

The Miller Dairys edged the Sweet Gulf Oils, 12 to 10, in a nip-and-tuck affair at Prospect park. The Dairys trailed, 7 to 5, going into the seventh inning, but pushed across five tallies to ice the game. B. Moritz and F. Moritz secured three blows apiece for the Dairys.

In the other game reported, the All-State Freights beat the Tappan Stoves, 9 to 5, at North park. The Dominion Electric-Page Dairy tilt was not reported.

Tangle in Feature Match

At least one of the three teams riding along in first place in The News-Journal Women's golf loop will drop out of its lofty position Friday when the clubs tangle in the weekly matches at Possum Run.

The feature attraction on this week's card will toss two of the co-leaders together. The affair pits Strome's Grocers against Marks' Markets. The foursomes are tied with the Liberty Shoes for the top spot. While these two are fighting it out, the Shoes take on the last-place Bates Candies.

LEE READY TO ATTACK ENEMY AT GETTYSBURG

events leading up to Gettysburg are detailed here by Dr. Freeman in the third of a series of "battlefield dispatches," written as a war correspondent might write them today.

By DR. DOUGLAS S. FREEMAN

Hdqrs. Army of Northern Virginia, near Greenwood, Pa., June 30, 1863 (11 P. M.)—General Lee today advanced his headquarters from Chambersburg to a deserted saw-mill close to Greenwood and, as his troops push forward toward Gettysburg, he awaits confirmation or denial of a startling report that Federal infantry already are at Gettysburg in support of cavalry with whom Pettigrew's brigade of Heth's division today had a brush.

Lieutenant-General A. P. Hill, heading the advance of the army, which General Lee has ordered to concentrate at Gettysburg, learned yesterday that shoes in considerable numbers were to be had in that town. This morning he ordered General Johnston Pettigrew to march from Cashtown to Gettysburg and to procure the footwear for the barefooted men of the Third corps.

Skirmish With Cavalry.

As General Pettigrew approached Gettysburg by the Cashtown road, his skirmishers encountered Federal cavalry in unknown numbers. Because of the continued absence of Stuart, General Pettigrew was without mounted troops of his own and he prudently decided not to venture on. A few of his staff-office, acting as cavalry scouts, got far enough toward Gettysburg to see something of the ground, and they reported that they heard what they took to be the roll of drums in infantry camps. Pettigrew thereupon countermarched to Cashtown where he rejoined Heth and Pender, who had moved up from Chambersburg. On receipt of Pettigrew's report, General Hill hurried back to Greenwood.

If the enemy is at Gettysburg, or is approaching that town, Lee by tomorrow will be in position to attack him. Hill's Third corps is well on the road to Gettysburg. Two of Longstreet's divisions are en route from Chambersburg. His third division, that of Major General Geo. E. Pickett, was left on guard at Chambersburg to await the arrival of Imboden's cavalry, which is coming up from the west. One brigade of Longstreet's is at New Guilford to cover the road from Greencastle past that village to Cashtown.

Within Day's March.

Two corps thus are within approximately a day's march of Gettysburg. So far as his subordinates know, or can state, General Lee has received no report today from General Ewell, but it confidently is assumed at headquarters that Ewell, after his recall from the [illegible] on Harrisburg, has turned southward.

The uneasiness of the army over the absence of the cavalry has deepened. General Lee continues to ask every new arrival if any news has been received from General Stuart, but in other respects he is as imperturbable as ever. Until he left Chambersburg today for Greenwood, where he made camp about 2 p. m., he was besieged by persons who asked permits or sought souvenirs. One woman went to his tent the other day and, after pleading for relief of the poor in Chambersburg, requested an autograph of the General.

"Do you want the autograph of a 'rebel'?" Lee asked.

"General Lee," she said, "I am a true Union woman, and yet I ask for bread and your autograph."

Foraging Under Difficulties.

"It is to your interest," the General answered, "to be for the Union and I hope you may be as firm in your principles as I am in mine." He gave her his signature, but not until he had cautioned her that possession of it might compromise her. When the lady left headquarters she confided to her friends that General Lee had said his only desire of the Federals was that they "would let him go home and eat his bread in peace."

Bread for the army is being procured with some difficulty because of the lack of cavalry. Confederates who are familiar with the desolation that prevails in Fairfax, Prince William and Culpeper counties, Virginia, are amazed at the sleek prosperity of Pennsylvania, but they are hampered in their foraging. General Lee has so few mounted men with him, while Stuart remains away, that he has been compelled to take artillery horses to serve the foraging parties. Many Pennsylvania horses have been purchased or seized by the quartermasters, but these animals are not popular with the troops.

Confident For Future.

The attention that the army is paying to these matters shows how confident it remains concerning the battles that may be ahead. The enemy seems the least concern of the men, yet there is discernible in the ranks a certain uneasiness that never was visible on the soil of Virginia. In part, the reorganization of the army is responsible for this. The men do not know their officers. In addition, it scarcely is too much to say that, in hostile Pennsylvania, where the men meet everywhere with closed mouths and frowns, they are conscious of a certain homesickness. Everything is so different in the enemy's country—but everything will be right again when Stuart rejoins the infantry and the Federals have been thoroughly beaten in the next great battle.

BULLETIN

Headquarters of the Army of the Potomac, Taneytown, Md., June 30, 1863—The time for action seems at hand.

General Meade, the new Federal commander, is convinced apparently that Lee has been compelled to drop back, thus relieving Harrisburg and Philadelphia.

Buford's division has been ordered to Gettysburg, the great road center, and rumor has it he has been engaged. Meade's troops form a great quadrilateral, ready to march or fight in any direction. Stuart's cavalry has cut our communications with General Couch, on the Susquehanna.

All this leads us to expect battle soon, betwen Gettysburg and Pipe creek.

It's Odd

But It's Science.

NEW YORK—Some new quick-freezing experiments with germs at Rockefeller Institute show that the intense cold of interstellar space is probably not one of the barriers against germs reaching the earth from elsewhere in the universe.

No scientist now thinks bacteria come from space. But it has been discussed seriously.

At Rockefeller Institute Thomas B. Turner, M. D., froze disease organisms in solid carbon dioxide. The cold was more than 100 below zero.

Syphilis germs were kept at that temperature a year. When thawed out, they were just as virulent as ever. The viruses of human flu and yellow fever endured six months of this intense cold. Afterward they were still as lively as before.

Apparently the quick-freeze had something to do with this preservation of life. For in less intense cold these and other organisms were mostly destroyed.

Dr. Turner's experiments are made in search for an improved method of preserving disease organisms for scientific experiments. Under natural conditions they usually die when removed from their "hosts," the tissues which they attack.

Leaders Up Fractions to Two Points, Ticker Tape Runs Behind Again.

BULLETIN

NEW YORK—(AP)—After one of the speediest buying moves in the past several years, leading stocks were jolted by profit selling today and top gains running to three or more points were reduced substantially or converted into losses.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Broadest buying of the recent rally whirled stock market leaders up fractions to more than two points in today's market.

The ticker tape ran as much as 10 minutes behind floor dealings in the struggle to record the huge volume of overnight orders.

Commodities pushed up with stocks, and bonds exhibited strength. Domestic copped was lifted ¼ of a cent a pound, the first change in the rate for this metal since it was reduced from 10 cents on May 19.

With Wall Street sentiment the best in months, analysts were able to detect bright spots on the economic horizon which for some time had been exceptionally dark.

In some quarters the opinion was expressed that a surprisingly large number of industrial producers might register higher operations in July than in the present month, despite seasonal and holiday interruptions.

Sales volumes in leading department stores were thought to have taken a jump, despite weather inclemency during the early days of this week, and it was believed possible a few retailers might report distribution equal if not ahead of the same 1937 week.

Poet's Home Made Memorial to Him, But 32 Years Later

DAYTON—(AP)—After 32 years, the home of Paul Lawrence Dunbar, colored poet, has become his memorial.

The frame house on the west side of the city was dedicated as a state museum while more than 1,500 persons gathered on the grounds.

Dr. George Edmund Haynes of New York, secretary of the race relations commission of the Federal Council of Churches, eulogized Dunbar, who died at the age of 34 in 1906, as a "poet of nature" whose talent "reached almost to genius."

Diary of a Beautiful International Spy.

MONDAY—(Aboard the S. S. Snickelfritz, west bound)—Ah, dear little diary, soon we arrive in New York, yes? Then I, Agent Z, will win all the secrets of the American peoples, ah yes. It will be so easy!

TUESDAY—New York—Good work today. Picked up valuable information in cafe. Overheard that Reds have taken middle west by storm. Made notes in code to turn over to Agent X, my superior, whenever he gets in touch with me.

WEDNESDAY — New York—Agent X still unreported. Got information of immense value from gullible young sports writer who took me to dinner. He revealed fact that the Yankees' big guns have lost much of their power Made notes, of course.

THURSDAY — Washington — America in midst of turmoil. Heard today that the great city of Cleveland, in the province of Ohio, has been the scene of great Indian uprising. Lots of notes but no Agent X.

FRIDAY — Washington—Saw Agent X today. He tore up all my notes, angrily stating the Reds, Yankees and Indians are what-you-call "baseball teams."

MADISON HALTS RELIEF ORDERS

Declares 'Holiday' During July; Money Gone, Township $3,100 in Debt.

except through a real estate tax," Beam said. "We are receiving $1,000 a month from the state and $200 a month from our general fund, but this amount is entirely inadequate. In March the court authorized the transfer of $10,000 from our road funds to relief funds, but this amount was used up in two months. We can't handle the situation without funds and we've got to have a show-down now before we get any further in debt."

By "show-down," Beam said he meant that the situation must crystalize, that the public must be made to see that relief is a problem that must be solved definitely. The state legislature having failed to provide any assistance, and with their only means of raising funds an assessment on real estate, the trustees are submitting a one mill levy on real estate in the township to the voters at the August primaries. This is in addition to the two-mill levy on real estate which will be proposed by the city for relief.

Relief orders, Beam said, have been inadequate because of lack of funds. Nist termed $1,200 a month for 400 families "ridiculous," pointing out that at that figure families on relief will receive only $3 per month regardless of the size of the families, for food and cooking fuel.

Relief orders today ranged from three to five dollars, and these must last a family until Aug. 1, Beam said.

Jury Raises Farm Easement Cost In Muskingum Action

Only ... deliberating a little more than an hour late yesterday, a jury in Richland county common pleas court decided that a flood easement on 76 acres of Samuel Harlan's farm in Mifflin township was worth $2,800, more than twice as much as the Muskingum conservancy district offered him for it.

The Muskingum conservancy board asked that the jury determine the compensation due Harlan after he had appealed from an appraisement of $1,230 for his land.

The 76 acres involved in the suit are below the elevation of the spillway of the Charles Mill dam and may be covered with water if a flood occurs.

About 20 witnesses, including a number of property owners in Mifflin township were examined during the three-day trial which was heard by Judge Walter J. Mourgey of Wooster.

The conservancy board was represented by Atty. John C. O'Donnell, and Harlan's counsel was Atty. William F. Black.

BEAR DESERTS CUBS

ELKLAND, N. Y.—(U.P.)—Her slumber disturbed by curious hikers, a hibernating bear deserted two black cubs in a cave near here as she shambled off to find a more secluded sleeping place. The cubs were taken to a game farm and are being raised on bottles.

FOUND 17 YEARS LATER

FINDLAY, O.—(U.P.)—Mrs. Lawrence Schoonover lost a valuable diamond ring in her back yard 17 years ago and rediscovered it about 35 feet from where she first missed it. The ring was in no way damaged.

AIDS HUSBAND IN CAMPAIGN

Mother, Lawyer, Mrs. Metcalf Still Finds Time to Help in Drive for Votes.

ciation of University Women; she is active in church work and in the Ladies' Aid; she is campaigning for her husband and finds time in the evenings to make her own strawberry jam.

She orders the groceries, sees that her husband's and children's clothes are mended and in their proper places, and that they have their meals on time. All this with only one housemaid.

And in her spare time she works in her flower garden. In fact, she kills two birds with one gesture in that garden—she plans her court cases while pulling the weeds out of the petunias.

Sounds like a large, capable, deep-voiced woman with a lorgnette, doesn't she? But she wears a size 14 dress, and affects styles that her high school daughter can wear on occasions. Yesterday she wore a smart, white tailored suit and a perky white hat perched precariously over dark rolls of hair.

Right now her interests are torn between her daughter's current "crush" and her husband's campaign. She is terribly in earnest about his election

"Republicans who sincerely want good, clean government, can't do other than vote for Verner Metcalf," she said yesterday. "The issue in this year's election is graft, and Verner gave them that issue. He insisted on an investigation into the various state departments — an investigation that revealed a shocking state of affairs. From Dec 20 to Feb. 28 he worked day and night, and without even expense money from the state.

"The personal integrity of a man may be fairly judged by what his fellow citizens think of him, and Verner has been elected prosecuting attorney of his county two terms, served nine years on the school board, and four years in the state senate—the only Republican elected in a Democratic landslide Even if I weren't his wife, I would support him a hundred per cent, in the interests of my home, my children and my citizenship"

Which would indicate that the attorneys, Metcalf and Metcalf, and the marital team, Mr. and Mrs, will stick together through the August primaries.

PECULIARITIES OFTEN CAUSE OF FAILURES, COLLEGE PREXY SAYS

Behavior habits due to peculiarities in thinking are frequent causes of failure and maladjustment, according to Dr Charles L Anspach, president of Ashland college, who spoke at Tuesday's meeting of the Mansfield Rotary club, held at Westbrook Country club

With "A Sound Mind" as his subject, Dr Anspach explained various oddities of the human mind which sometimes lead to insanity, but which, if recognized and treated can frequently be restored to normal

He emphasized the importance of understanding mental processes and having medical attention in cases where departure from normal thinking is realized by an individual or members of the family

"The majority of experiences are universal," said Dr Anspach, "and should be recognized as such, rather than that a person should think he is being subjected to something out of the ordinary, or suffering in a way that other people have not experienced"

Referring to some of the causes of failure to adjust to surroundings, Dr. Anspach mentioned. hostility, inability to get along with other people, overconfidence in self, feeling of inferiority, and a desire to avoid work

Need for more attention to the need for early treatment of mental ailments was presented as a means of reducing the further spread of insanity, or the requirement for institutional care

Dr. R C Wise was chairman of the meeting at which W L Miller, retiring president, presided

R C Hoiles, of Santa Ana, Calif, former Mansfield publisher, was a guest at the meeting, being in Mansfield and vicinity for a couple of weeks visit.

President OK's Million-Dollar Richland County Road Project

MADISON TO HALT RELIEF DURING JULY

$3,100 in Debt, Township to Take 'Holiday,' Leave 1,800 Shift for Selves.

LAST ORDERS GIVEN OUT

Trustees Assert Law Forbids Them to Go Into Debt to Care for Needy.

Richland county's relief situation became more involved today with the announcement by Madison township trustees that they will "close shop" during the month of July and approximately 1,800 persons on relief will be without food or aid of any kind until Aug. 1.

Today, faced with the fact that they are already $3,100 in debt and that the law specifically forbids them incurring any indebtedness, they issued an order to Relief Director Earl Nist to cut off all grocery orders and other forms of relief for the township for the month of July.

City Continues On 'Cuff.'

In the meantime however, Mansfield faced with equally as serious a problem, and unpaid food bills already totaling $30,000 continued to meet the costs "on the cuff" to provide subsistence for 5,000 indigent persons in the city.

City officials however, said today that "so far" no consideration had been given to the reducing of the grocery orders since Mansfield relief costs per person are already among the lowest in the state.

The final grocery orders for township clients amounting to $1,800 are being issued today and tomorrow.

No Help From City.

Nist said that he would have to follow the instructions of the trustees. He also said orders to township relief clients cannot be issued from city relief funds.

Approximately 400 families, or one out of every four persons in the township, are affected by the order.

W. F. Beam, chairman of the board of trustees, said that there is no alternative under the law. They have already exceeded their authority by $3,100 for which they may be held personally responsible, he said.

"The law instructs us to give relief to township indigents, but provides no way for our raising funds

JAPS PROMISE

Won't Bomb 'Open' Cities in China, Pope Informed.

VATICAN CITY— (INS) —Japan has promised to cease bombing "open" cities in China as the result of an appeal by Pope Pius, Osservatore Romano, the official organ of the Holy See, said today.

Using vigorous language, according to Osservatore, the pope urged Tokyo to "halt useless butchery and the bombing of 'open' Chinese cities."

Apostolic Delegate Marella conveyed the pope's plea to Foreign Minister Kozushige Ugaki in Tokyo.

Ugaki gave assurances, according to Osservatore, that everything would be done to assure the safety of civilian populations and non-combatants.

CIVIL WAR VETS RECALL BATTLE

2,000 Tent For Last Time On Gettysburg Battlefield.

GETTYSBURG, Pa.—(AP)— Two thousand aged Civil war veterans, tenting for the last time on the old camp ground, turned back the pages of the nation's history 75 years today to the stirring events of the great conflict between the north and the south.

Across the same dusty Pennsylvania road that once divided the union, the remnants of two mighty armies faced each other again as they did nearly three score years ago in the battle that marked the turning point of the war in which many of them fought.

But it was not as the boys in blue and the striplings in gray that the old soldiers met—on this 75th anniversary of the battle of Gettysburg—but as comrades.

14 FIRMS BID ON FIRE EQUIPMENT

Buffalo Company Low on New Pumper; Control Board Studies Offers.

The city board of control today was studying the bids of 14 firms submitted on the various equipment to be purchased to bolster the city's fire fighting equipment.

The bids, opened yesterday by the board which is comprised of Mayor Claude M. Hunter and Service-Safety Director Tracy C. Styert, included six proposals on a new pumper and eight bids on 16 new fireplugs which are to be purchased.

Styert said neither contract would be awarded for at least a week until the board had had time to study all bids.

Specifications on the pumper call for a cab truck equipped with a 750-gallon centrifugal pump having not less than a 750-gallon per minute capacity. It is to be painted red with gold striping.

Specifications on the hydrants call for five four-inch plugs with five-inch valves and valve boxes, and 11 five-inch plugs with six-inch valves and valve boxes.

Of the six firms which submitted bids on the fire truck, the Buffalo Fire Appliance corporation, of Buffalo, N. Y., was low with a bid of $8,220, which was $155 lower than the closest competitor, the Mack-International Motor Truck company, Allentown, Pa., which bid $8,375.

Other bidders were the Peter Pirsch and Sons, Kenosha, Wis.;

NYE HOLDS ON TO EARLY LEAD

Senator Leads by 7,000 as Last of Vote Comes In.

FARGO, N. D.—(AP)—Although late returns from scattered precincts whittled his margin, U. S. Sen. Gerald P. Nye of North Dakota continued to hold some of the early lead he piled up over William Langer in their contest for the Republican nomination for senator.

Nye at one time was about 15,000 votes ahead of his Non-partisan league opponent in Tuesday's primary election, but the advantage dwindled rapidly.

With 2,144 of the state's 2,260 precincts reported, Nye had 87,762 votes, Langer 81,460.

MARKET BOOM CONTINUES AT DIZZY PACE

3,000,000 Share Day Looms as Traders Start Furious Buying Spree.

TICKER RUNNING BEHIND

Exchange in Bedlam as Shares Change Hands in Blocks of 5,000; Prices Climb.

BULLETIN

NEW YORK — (INS) — After starting out at a dizzy rate, with prices again surging upward, the hectic pace of the stock market slowed up somewhat shortly after noon today and—due to profit taking—some of the early gains were lost. Brokers said, however, that the market was holding its own in view of the extended advance recorded earlier in the day.

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
(INS Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK—Amid a furore of excitement reminiscent of the boom days, the New York stock exchange was a bedlam today as trading whirled at a dizzy pace on the heels of yesterday's record-breaking volume for the year of 2,658,000 shares at prices 1 to 7 points higher.

The ticker, running five to ten minutes behind in recording transactions in the first hour's trading, resorted to "flashing" prices.

Prices Rise Again.

Prices were again higher, and buying was fast and furious. The floor of the exchange seethed with activity as brokers rushed in and out with fresh orders.

At 11 a. m. the ticker was running almost ten minutes behind.

Immediately the gong sounded, opening business for the day, the excitement broke loose. A flood of orders were dumped on the market.

United States Steel, a bell wether on the stock list, opened with a bang, a block of 5,000 shares going up at 58, up 1⅛. Other blocks of 5,000 changed hands as the pace of trading became accelerated.

The market has been on the rise since a week ago Monday, when, for the first time since May 10, more than 1,000,000 shares were dealt in.

Observers expressed the opin-

HUNT 'ARSENAL'

Kansas Prison Guards Learn of Wholesale Escape Plot.

LEAVENWORTH, Kas.—(INS)— The Kansas State penitentiary at Mansing, five miles south of here, rested on a virtual powder keg, officials feared today as they investigated reports of a wholesale escape plot.

Large supplies of explosives and weapons are reported to have been smuggled into the prison and hidden in preparation for the break.

Fourteen desperate convicts have already been placed in solitary confinement and guards continued to grill other prisoners.

The entire prison force is said to have been engaged in the systematic hunt for a cache of weapons, tearing bedding apart and sounding walls.

BEAUTY SLAIN

Jersey Girl, 24, Found Dead on Lonely Roadside.

ELIZABETH, N. J.—(INS)—With all indications pointing to murder, or a death leap to foil an attempted attack, the body of Irene Gaertner, beautiful 24-year-old resident of nearby Newark, was found today on a lonely suburban road on the outskirts of this city.

The victim's skull was fractured and her knees and elbows bruised and scraped, indicating that the automobile from which she was thrown or jumped was traveling at high speed.

There's Life in the Old Boys Yet!

During the Civil war days there was little time to sit around and take things easy. But now, at Gettysburg, Pa., scene of the famous Civil war battle and site of the present 75th anniversary celebration of the Blue and Gray, Tim Flaherty, 95, of Miami, Fla., a former Union soldier, finds plenty of time. In fact, Flaherty feels so good he puts on a dance for some friends at the battlefield. President Roosevelt was scheduled to participate in the ceremonies on July 3.

Bellville Plans Jubilee, New Bridge to Open Soon

Span Expected to Be In Use by Fourth; Dedication Arrangements Mapped by Residents.

Bellville's new $47,000 bridge on route 13 probably will be open for Fourth of July traffic, Boyd Wierman, state highway engineer in Richland county, said today.

Although federal highway officials have not approved the new structure, the bridge will be ready for use by Saturday, Wierman said. It was built by the Purdy Construction company, Mansfield, in about six months.

Meanwhile, a committee of Bellville residents, headed by A. A. Shafer, is arranging elaborate dedication ceremonies to mark completion of the bridge for which Bellville business men campaigned for months.

Ask Ashbrook to Speak.

Shafer said today that the dedication probably would be held in about two weeks, after the bridge has been opened to traffic. Congressman William A. Ashbrook, a representative of the state highway department, and possibly other prominent public officials will speak on the dedication program, it was said.

The new bridge, which replaces an old steel structure over Clear Fork creek, is of concrete and steel construction. It is 146 feet long and 40 feet wide, providing for a five-foot sidewalk in addition to the highway. About 155 tons of steel were used in the structure.

MARTIN, LEWIS CONFER TODAY

Sees CIO Chief To Air Troubles In Auto Union.

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— Homer C. Martin, president of the United Automobile Workers of America, will lay his troubles this afternoon before John L. Lewis, chairman of the Committee for Industrial Organization. Martin was en route here from Detroit.

Although Lewis has refused to comment on the factional fight within the CIO's fourth largest union, it is known that he is only lukewarm towards Martin and does not approve of his summary suspension of five high ranking U. A. W. A. officials.

Yesterday Martin filed charges of "conduct unbecoming an international officer" against the ousted officials.

RIOTING FLARES

Holy Land Clashes Follow Hanging of Jewish Youth, 18.

JERUSALEM — (INS) — Armed with bayonets, military and police reserves patrolled Jerusalem and other Holy Land trouble centers today following violent mass demonstrations against the hanging yesterday of Solomon Ben Yosef, 18-year-old Jew, for firing at an Arab-owned bus.

Martial law was reinforced in Arab-Jewish areas and a strict curfew was enforced here.

N. Y. Pastor Killed In Fall From Hotel Window.

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—Rev. William A. Marchant, who was assigned Monday to serve as pastor of the church of St. Dominick in Detroit, fell to his death today from a room on the fifth floor of the Hotel Commodore.

'GOOD NEIGHBOR' PLEA RENEWED

Roosevelt, Laying Cornerstone at Fair, Urges Nations to Reaffirm Friendships.

(By United Press)

NEW YORK—President Roosevelt reaffirmed his "good neighbor" policy in international relations today in a brief speech to an audience of foreign, national, state and city officials on the grounds of the 1939 world fair.

The president drove here from Hyde Park, N. Y., to lay the cornerstone of the fair's federal building.

He urged the foreign officials to induce their countrymen to visit the United States in greater numbers so as to develop greater understanding and friendship between this and other nations.

"All of us realize, of course," he said, "that the affairs of many arts of the world are, to put it politely, somewhat distraught. Such a condition necessarily accompanies wars and rumors of wars."

The president said that while the people of the western hemisphere were "happily removed" from the immediate pressure of war, they were nevertheless concerned "in a larger sense" because of the good relations the United States enjoys with all nations. The good neighbor policy, he said, was developed because the American republics were "against war" and had agreed "quietly to discuss" difficulties that may arise.

TWO INJURED

Man and Girl Hurt When Car Fails to Negotiate Curve.

BUCYRUS—Two persons were injured, one critically, when the car in which they were riding struck two guard rails, after failing to make a curve, five miles west of Bucyrus last night on route 30.

The two occupants, Gordon Harris, 33, Cleveland, and Miss Orilla Kelly, 24, Scotia, N. Y., are both in City hospital here. Harris suffered a fractured skull, fractured right shoulder, a dislocated left shoulder, and other injuries. His condition was reported critical. Miss Kelly suffered minor lacerations.

According to Deputy Sheriff Elwood Jacobs, Harris was traveling west on route 30 at a high rate of speed. Unable to make a curve near the Oceola bridge, the car skidded off the road, struck a guard rail, and was knocked across the road where it struck another guard rail. The car skidded about 300 feet but did not turn over, Deputy Jacobs reported.

Harris was on his way to Indianapolis to attend a convention.

ARRAIGN DAVEY AIDS FRIDAY

Columbus Court to Hear Pleas On Campaign Collection Charge.

COLUMBUS —(INS)— Will P. Stephenson, assistant attorney general, said the seven aids of Governor Davey indicted by a special grand jury for violation of the state civil service laws, will be arraigned Friday at 9 a. m. before Judge Charles A. Leach.

He said no attempt was made to serve capias on the seven men, but that they had agreed to appear voluntarily.

Those indicted were M. Ray Allison, state finance director; Thomas E. Dye, assistant purchasing agent; J. Freer Bittinger, treasurer of the Davey for governor committee; Danied S. Earhart, attorney-examiner for the sales tax division; Charles O. Wilson, gasoline tax division chief; Frank W. Mowery and J. L. Kennedy, state building superintendents.

NO SALE HERE

Man, 53, Buys a Street Car But Doesn't Get It.

LOS ANGELES —(AP)— William Zion, 53, waited till street car No. 1324 came along.

He boarded the car, showed a bill of sale to the conductor for No. 1324, and demanded his property.

The conductor referred Zion to the police bunko detail which now seeks the "salesmen" who took Zion's $100.

Arms Leak Tiff Brews New Crisis

Chamberlain Strength Given Test as Fight Still Rages.

LONDON — Prime Minister Chamberlain announced today that the house of commons committee on privileges had decided that a special military court committed a breach of privilege in summoning Duncan Sandys to tell where he got secret anti-aircraft defense data.

The army court, constituted to find and plug the leak, already had bowed to the house in a stirring conflict between parliament and army—a quarrel which raised the possibility that the Chamberlain government might stand or fall on the outcome.

The court of three high army officers met briefly and then adjourned until after Commons completes its own inquiry into the affair involving privileges of its members under Britain's dread official secrets act.

It previously had cancelled a summons against Duncan Sandys, Conservative M. P., whose possession of secret data touched off the struggle. Now the military tribunal will be idle until after a select committee of the house of commons makes its report.

Although Sandys, son-in-law of Winston Churchill and an officer of the territorial army, was not present at the court session, another territorial officer was understood to have been on hand to face charges he let out anti-aircraft data.

The select committee was to begin this afternoon, after debate in the house, to investigate the situation created by Sandy's allegation that he was threatened with prosecution under the official secrets act.

Sandys charged he was threatened by the attorney general, Sir Donald Bradley Somervell, on the orders of War Secretary Leslie Hore-Belisha.

It was reliably reported the cabinet, at a meeting yesterday, decided to accept full responsibility for the "official secrets case."

ARMS RACE ON

U. S. Britain, France Agree on New Battleship Limit.

LONDON — (INS) — The flag was dropped for a world naval race today as Great Britain, the United States, and France broke away from the limitations of the London pact and agreed on a 45,000-ton limit for battleships.

Announcement that the three nations had invoked the pact's escalator clause and agreed on a new top for super-battlewagons was made in the house of commons by Alfred Duff-Cooper, first lord of the admiralty.

The 16-inch limit on gun calibres will remain unchanged, said Duff-Cooper.

"The 45,000-ton figure was higher than his majesty's government desired," the first lord commented, "but it was the lowest figure on which agreement could be reached."

DOUBLE TRAGEDY

Violent Death Strikes Ohio Family Twice In Week.

BOWLING GREEN—(AP)—Violent death struck the family of Earl Barlekamp, Risingsun farmer, for the second time within a week when his 11-year-old son, Dale, was trampled by horses last night. Another son, Glen, two, was drowned in a cistern at the home last Friday.

Trusty at Reformatory Flees Five Days Before Parole Date

Two Mansfield reformatory trusties, one of whom would have been paroled in five days, staged a successful escape yesterday and were being hunted by police throughout Ohio today. They were the fourth and fifth to disappear from the institution grounds this week.

Superintendent Arthur L. Glattke said one of the inmates who had been sent to the home of one of the guards to mow the grass had stolen the guard's car and was believed to have taken the other inmate, who was working in the orchard, with him.

The stolen automobile, owned by a guard Wilbur Johnson, was found abandoned one mile west of Bucyrus on U. S. route 30-N, early today by the sheriff of Crawford county.

Glattke said the fugitives were Frank Voss, and Tom Ferris, both 20. Voss was received from Tuscarawas county Dec. 5, 1936, and was serving from one to 20 years for auto theft. He was to have been paroled July 5. Ferris, received at the reformatory March 18, 1937, from Lucas county was under sentence from one to 15 years for burglary.

Glattke said Voss had been sent to the Johnson home at 2 p. m. to mow the lawn. He said the inmate finding no one at home had apparently forced open a rear door and located the keys to the Johnson car. It was believed that Ferris who was working as a trusty in the farm orchard had accompanied Voss, for both inmates were reported missing about the same time.

Voss, by making his escape yesterday forfeits the right of parole and faces the possibility of additional time when captured, Glattke said.

RAIDS KILL 90 IN BARCELONA

Two Insurgent Bombers Cause Injuries to 140 Others.

BARCELONA — (INS) — Two insurgent air raids in the vicinity of Barcelona, the worst in weeks, today killed 90 persons and wounded 140.

Ten tri-motored bombers heavily attacked the suburban town of Badalona at 9:30 a. m. then soared off to the east leaving 50 killed and 90 wounded.

970 TO GET JOBS ON HUGE WPA PROJECT

Federal Government to Spend $699,000 for Labor on County Program.

EARLY START PREDICTED

Jobs Expected to Help Solve Relief Problem; County Puts Up $300,000.

Approval of Richland county's $1,000,000 WPA project within the next 10 days was virtually assured today when President Roosevelt placed it on the eligible list of work relief projects in the 17th congressional district.

Approximately 460 men will be put to work on the county roads and bridges as soon as federal funds are released. County Engineer Howard C. Sword said. At its peak, the blanket project will provide jobs for approximately 970 men.

U. S. To Spend $699,000.

Needing only the approval of the comptroller general, which is little more than a formality, the project will bring $699,254 into the county in federal funds.

Set up as a blanket program, the project will include improvements to roads and bridges, work on streets, sewers, sidewalks and parks in Mansfield and Shelby, and possible grading of school grounds in Madison township.

The federal government's grant of approximately $700,000 will be supplemented by more than $300,000 in county road funds and sponsor contributions from the cities and townships which benefit from the project.

Early Start Seen.

While County Engineer Howard C. Sword saw the possibility of a slight delay in starting work on the project if the program does not clear the comptroller's office as expected, he indicated that work would be underway in rural districts immediately after the release of funds.

Jobs created as a result of the approval of the program are expected to go a long way toward solving the relief problem in Mansfield and Madison township where the situation has become critical due to the lack of funds.

Proposed township and county road improvements, which would be first on the list, would absorb most of the 512 men in the county who have been certified for work relief projects by relief officials.

Drafted a little more than a month ago, the huge blanket program received prompt action from the state and national WPA offices because of the lack of federal projects in the Richland county area, county officials said.

County Engineer Sword mapped the project after state WPA officials had complained that the county's failure to obtain federal funds was due to the absence of available work relief projects.

Moody, Jacobs to Meet In English Net Title Finals

WIMBLEDON, Eng. — (INS) — Mrs. Helen Wills Moody and Helen Jacobs — fellow-Californians—will meet Saturday for the all-England women's tennis championship in resumption of one of the longest and most dramatic feuds in the history of the courts.

They earned a place against each other for the sixth time in major competition today when Mrs. Moody advanced into the finals by beating Frau Hilda Sperling, of Nenmark, 12-10, 6-4, and Miss Jacobs took her semi-final match from Alice Marble, another Californian, 6-4, 6-4.

Former County Auditor Admits Embezzling $9,867.

NEW PHILADELPHIA — (INS) — Ralph Richardson, former Tuscarawas county auditor, today faced an indefinite term in Ohio penitentiary after pleading guilty to charges of embezzling $9,867.30 from the county dog and kennel fund.

Richardson was arrested when state examiners discovered the shortage in his accounts.

Hearing Ends, Examiner to Weigh Mansfield NLRB Case

Albert L. Lohm, trial examiner for the National Labor Relations Board, today had under advisement testimony in charges of unfair labor practices lodged against the Ohio Brass company following the discharge of Tony Colace, a casting grinder.

Whether Colace's reinstatement will be ordered will depend on recommendations by the trial examiner to the NLRB at Washington. Should the board rule in favor of Colace, the company may appeal to federal courts.

There was no indication as to when a decision might be expected. It will come from the board, when it is made.

The specific question up for decision is whether Colace's discharge Nov. 19, 1937 was prompted by Colace's activities at the plant in behalf of the United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers union, a CIO affiliate, or for proper reasons.

The company contends Colace was a "troublesome" employe, that he was responsible for several disturbances in his department and frequently quarreled with his foreman. His superiors were not aware that Colace took steps to unionize workmen and had obtained 13 memberships, the company contends.

Hearing of the case was conducted in the Richland county probate courtroom. It lasted for two and a half days.

Max W. Johnstone, Cleveland attorney, was counsel for the labor board, and the law firm of Day, Young, Veach and Lefever of Cleveland, and William McE. Weldon of Mansfield, represented the company.

FEDERAL WHEAT INSURANCE PLAN SET IN MOTION

Washington Township Man to Supervise Administration in Richland County.

With the appointment of Howard Stone of Washington township as wheat insurance supervisor in Richland county, machinery had been set in motion today for the administration of the federal insurance plan in the county.

Designed to provide up to 75 per cent protection for wheat growers against loss of their crop as the result of drought or floods, the plan will be effective Aug. 15, according to Guy Taylor, chairman of the county soils conservation committee

Taylor said an insurance agent would be appointed in each of the county's 18 townships within the next few days to call on every farmer in the county to explain the plan.

Growers who participate in the insurance plan will be required to pay their premiums in wheat or the equivalent in cash, while losses will be paid in the same manner.

The premium rate in Richland county for 75 per cent coverage is 1.2 bushels per acre, and .4 of a bushel for 50 per cent protection.

The plan will tend to stabilize the grain market by causing the wheat to be stored and sold when the prices are best, Taylor said.

Administration of the program is in charge of the supervisor appointed by the county soils conservation committee as the governing body.

THEATER

BECAUSE the reissue of the Rudolph Valentino pictures have been amazing drawing cards after all of these years and despite the fact that the type of acting 12 years ago is considered ham now, 20th Century-Fox will make a picture based on his life. The next thing is to get the right actor to portray the role of the Latin screen lover. Jack LaRue would like to do it, but the suggestion is almost as ridiculous as that of George Raft. The studio wants to use Jack Dunn, a screen unknown, who is said to resemble Valentino somewhat. The whole idea seems a little preposterous in view of the fact that millions of fans still remember Valentino distinctly and anyone chosen for the role will seem totally inadequate. Besides, his name is still poison to most men, although he was distinctly the he-man type.

Devil's Party.

Up from Hell's Kitchen comes the inspiration for the picture "Devil's Party," opening tomorrow at the Madison. Victor McLaglen heads a cast that includes Beatrice Roberts, William Gargan, and Paul Kelly in this story of the history of five boys that grew up in New York's toughest district; of their friendships and fierce loyalty through the years even though their positions in society are unalterably opposed to each other. Two are police officers, one a graduate of a reform school, turned night club operator, one is a priest, and the other a lovely night club singer.

Rosemary Progresses.

Rosemary Lane, who has been coming right along in her picture career since she forsook her radio and stage mentor. Fred Waring, is the feminine lead opposite Rudy Vallee in "Gold Diggers in Paris." Rosemary, the "middle" of the three Lane sisters, made her first screen appearance with Waring's band in a Dick Powell picture, and since then she has been featured in several important musical pictures. The new edition of the Gold Diggers is filled with pretty girls chosen and trained by Busby Berkley, famous dance "designer." Music and pulchritude are woven together with comedy of the Hugh Herbert-Allen Jenkins type, with Mabel Todd, latest of the dumb dora comedians. The picture is current at the Ohio.

Homespun Humor.

Homespun humor and rural romance is interpreted in terms of motion pictures in "Young Fugitives," opening at the Majestic tomorrow. In it are most of the characters that will be found in any average American village the town banker who is also the mayor, the sharp-tongued landlady, the talkative delivery boy. The story is that of a Civil war veteran who gets a windfall of $50,000 and adopts a girl hobo and the wild young grandson of one of his former war comrades. Robert Wilcox, Dorothea Kent, and Harry Davenport are the principals. Ken Maynard in "Six Shootin' Sheriff" is also on the bill.

Daffy Comedy.

A high-powered comedy cast is one of the recommendable features of "Danger—Love at Work," which is the attraction at the Ritz for the last two days of the week. Ann Sothern, who has been starred in romantic comedies with Gene Raymond, has Jack Haley for a partner in it, with Mary Boland and Edward Everett Horton as support. It is of the popular "nut" variety with Ann Sothern the daffiest debutante imaginable and Haley the most bewildered Romeo that ever faced a determined girl with a shotgun. Boland and Horton are the girl's parents. Mistaken identity provides the theme. "The Last Stand," with Bob Baker, is a second feature.

NAZIS PROTEST SONG POKING FUN AT HITLER

Czechs Sing 'We'll Clout You on the Bean, Hitler'; Wars Bring New Forays.

(By Associated Press)

A Czechoslovak song that brought German protests shared attention today with the world's wars and rumors of war.

The song: Official Czechoslovak circles could not or would not confirm an official German report that Berlin had protested against classroom songs regarded as satirical attacks on Reichsfuehrer Hitler. One such song, born in army barracks goes:

"We'll clout you on the bean, Hitler,
"So no one can put you together again . . . "

The wars: In China, new rains swept the Yangtze valley and increased flood dangers in the path of the up-valley Japanese drive on Hankow, Chinese capital. The drive apparently was bogged down already at a cross-Yangtze boom at Matowchen, 175 miles downstream from Hankow.

Bombers Raid Again.

In Spain, insurgent planes made new forays on the Catalan coast, bombing a railway linking Barcelona with France. Authorities estimated 36 persons were killed and 50 injured. On the Valencia warfront, an insurgent drive cracked government defenses in two places in the Sierra de Espadan, a mountain ridge some 30 miles north of Valencia.

Meanwhile, the British government anxiously awaited the insurgent regime's reply to protests against aerial attacks on British shipping.

The reply, being brought to London by Sir Robert M. Hodgson, British agent at Burgos, was reported to propose establishment of a Spanish government port where "legitimate" cargoes could be landed safely.

BANS GATHERING OF TRASH, BRUSH

Styert Tells City Drivers to Collect Only Cans, Ashes From Residences.

Service-Safety Director Tracy C. Styert today ordered city truck drivers to cease carting away trash and brush for municipal garbage customers, terming the practice an abuse of the ash collection service.

In a meeting in his office today, Styert ordered the drivers to refuse to collect anything but tin cans and ashes which are collected under an auxiliary service maintained for regular garbage customers.

"The city is not running a clean-up service. If residents want their yards and basements cleaned up there are plenty of men out of work who will do the job," he told the drivers and helpers. "From now on I want nothing but ashes and cans picked up."

He emphasized that there were to be no exceptions because the loading of trash and rubbish delayed the work that is done by two trucks over the entire city.

He said that in the past some garbage customers had abused the service by prevailing upon the drivers to haul away rubbish and trash that had accumulated in the cellars and back yards.

A Farmer's Diary

By Calvin A. Byers

BACKGROUND(?)

FOR a number of years friends of mine have owned a small truck farm and greenhouse at the edge of a middle-sized agricultural town.

It was a proud saving in that family that when the parents bought the farm they had nothing—but children. There were nine of the youngsters, five boys and four girls, like stairsteps, two years apart. Their father had a stand on city market, where twice a week they sold what produce, berries and small fruits they could raise.

To get this harvest ready for market was a real job. The men and boys would pull the onions and carrots, beets and turnips, radishes and celery. These root vegetables all needed scrubbing and bunching. Huge wooden tubs were installed in a shed, and hour after hour the women and girls took turns washing vegetables and tying them together. The job was back breaking and the workers' hands grew coarse, red and calloused. The mother of the family was the most adept and dextrous. She set the pace.

The family co-operated. Neat bright stacks of fresh-picked vegetables were sold, year after year. The thrifty mother managed to rear all those children, educate them, and pay for the home. Then she died.

Whenever now, on market day I pass the stalls, the crisp red beets and curly lettuce and tender asparagus in tempting display . . . the piles of juicy corn and fresh tomatoes, the berries in their season . . . the bunches of gaudy carrots, the green peas, the solid heads of blue-white cabbage, the bushels and bushels of onions and turnips and spuds . . . all make upon the background of my mind, like in a gigantic mural, a canvas against which, in bold relief, stands the stooped, uncomplaining figure of a humble mother with hard, reddened hands . . . and nine splendid children to her credit.

FIRE AID FOR TOWNSHIPS END

Sharon, Jackson Protection Contracts With Shelby Expire July 1.

SHELBY—Jackson and Sharon townships will be without fire protection from this city tomorrow unless special arrangements are made to continue the present contracts which expire July 1.

Action was taken by township officials in March at a special joint session to renew the contracts with a three-year proposition calling for an expenditure of $6,250 for fire protection for both townships. Of this amount, Jackson township would stand $2,500 and Sharon, $3,750.

The contract was turned down by city officials who claimed a larger amount would be needed to finance the necessary improvements to the fire department equipment for adequate fire protection for the rural districts. A new fire truck at an approximate cost of $9,000 had been contemplated by city officials.

City council had notified the two townships' officials in February that their contracts would not be renewed unless necessary arrangements could be made. Council's action was based on the recommendation from Fire Chief Eugene Schull that additional rural equipment would be needed this year.

Sharon township trustees are expected to discuss fire protection at its regular session Saturday night at the city hall.

PERRY ADDS TO DISTINCTIONS, ONLY TOWNSHIP MINUS CIGARETS

Perry township is not only the lone township in Richland county without a relief problem, but it also is the only one in which it is impossible to buy cigarets.

In making a distribution today of $10,075 in cigaret license fees collected this year, Deputy County Auditor Arthur S. Beck discovered that Perry township will receive no funds since it has no cigaret vendor and contributed nothing in license fees.

Located in the southwest corner of the county, the township is entirely rural and has no incorporated village.

Six other townships of the 18 in the county have no vendors and will not share in the distribution, but all of them include villages which will receive a portion of the license receipts, Beck said. These townships are Cass, Jefferson, Monroe, Plymouth, Troy and Worthington.

The state receives half of the total receipts collected from cigaret permits, while the other half is divided between the county and its sub-divisions.

The county's share is $2,518, while the townships, cities and villages will get an equal amount for their general funds.

Mansfield will receive $1,665; Shelby, $249; Madison township, $171, and Springfield township, $84. Other sub-divisions will get smaller amounts.

THURSDAY, JUNE 30, 1938.

There are all kinds of people—including those who sell fireworks at roadside stands just outside city limits.

Why not take up a collection to paint the B. & O depot—so that it may be mistaken for a shack instead of a dump?

Possibly you didn't know that more persons have been killed in celebrating Independence day since 1930 than there were colonists killed in the entire Revolutionary war.

Believes Stock Rise Justified.

OUT of the many winds of business comment, here is a statement that seems unusually apt and reassuring. It is from a business expert of Western Reserve university, in the form of a "Good News Letter."

There is nothing to be alarmed about in the recent big rise in stocks, he says. There have been times when such a spectacular rise was doubtful because it was accompanied by bad news. This time there is no such adulteration: the news is mostly good. The next six months look better than the last six, and the stock market confirms it.

He speaks of the evidence of abundant cash in people's pockets, as shown by heavy attendance at sporting events; steel production well above 1932 levels, with scrap prices rising; a doubling of the life insurance purchased in June over that of last year; sales of cotton goods up sharply and ahead of production; consumption now surpassing production in nearly every line.

"Unlike 1930-31," he adds, "we shut down very quickly this time, thereby bringing closer the time when production must increase again. The inevitable revival will not manifest itself in all industries at the same time. Contraction often sweeps the country by storm, but expansion floats on gentle breezes. That is the nature of the business cycle."

Search for Labor Wisdom.

THERE will be considerable interest in the mission of the nine experts representing business, education and government, whom President Roosevelt has sent abroad to study labor problems in England and Sweden.

There is a growing impression in America that those countries have been more successful than ours in developing satisfactory relations between capital and labor, with the government merely providing necessary legislation and encouraging the two groups to solve their own problems. The committee members will operate independently, as separate individuals and groups.

The names are impressive. The nine include as business representatives Gerald Swope, president of the General Electric Co., Charles R. Hook, president of the American Rolling Mills Co., and Henry I. Harriman, former president of the United States Chamber of Commerce. Labor is represented by Robert Watt of the International Labor Office at Geneva, standing for the American Federation of Labor. Education is represented by Lloyd K. Garrison of the University of Wisconsin, former chairman of the National Labor board, and Miss Marion Dickerman, principal of the Todhunder School for girls in New York City. For government, there are William E. Chalmers, assistant U. S. labor commissioner, William H. Davis, attorney and former deputy NRA administrator, and Anna M. Rosenberg, regional director of the Social Security board in New York.

The list seems to guarantee that the inquiry will be conducted fairly, from many points of view. The report will be awaited with interest by Americans who realize that the Old World has been wrestling with some of these modern problems longer than we have, and may have found some good answers to them.

More Socialism In Germany.

NAZISM, it will be remembered, is a handy abbreviation of "National Socialism." German socialism takes another significant step in the new decree calling all employable men and women into the service of the state "for any work the government chooses to assign them." It becomes effective July 1 and is intended to "insure a supply of workers for any tasks important to the state."

All the drafted men and women will be obliged to work temporarily, it is announced, "under normal labor terms at jobs which are specially assigned to them, or submit themselves to particular training." Inasmuch as it seems to be the nature of Nazism to proceed always at top speed, utilizing all the available power of the state for programs of ever-increasing magnitude, it may be assumed that this drafting of total man-power and woman-power will continue as long as the Hitler system endures.

The German system is not yet "state socialism" in the same sense that the Russian system is, but it is obviously moving in that direction. The two countries seem to grow more alike economically and politically, even while they express their mutual horror of each other's institutions.

Tell of Unseen Planes.

THERE comes a note of romance in an otherwise sordid and horrible war. A Japanese observer says the Chinese lately have been using "invisible planes" from Russia.

These craft are supposed to dive and drop bombs without being seen. They are said to have been used successfully in an attack on the Japanese airdrome at Anking, where the invaders are operating in their drive against Hankow, the present Chinese capital, destroying twelve Japanese bombers refuelling there. They are also credited with shooting down various Japanese planes elsewhere and disabling warships anchored in the Yangtse. They can be heard, says the informant, and the effect of their action can be seen, but the anti-aircraft guns are powerless against them because there is nothing to aim at.

This might be a flight of imagination or a clever excuse for recent Japanese losses. On the other hand, it is conceivable that new tricks of camouflaging and coloration have been devised, making it very hard to see attacking planes against the sky.

Surely some place there must be a sanguine youth who thinks he can whip Joe Louis.

The main purpose of a fireside chat seems to be to roast the opposition.

Watching Trends

—By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON — There is such downright opposition among some of the "elder statesmen" to the administration's foreign policy that the attempt made to get the senate to endorse even its criticism of civilian bombing was all but snowed under.

Few in the senate doubted that Chairman Pittman of the senate foreign relations committee was working in close co-operation with the state department when he introduced a resolution proposing to "approve of the sentiments expressed by the Secretary of State" in denouncing bombing of civilian populations.

To Secretary Hull it would have been valuable as lending senatorial weight to his recognized efforts to bring aggressor nations to heel. Two senate elder statesmen, Borah of Idaho and Johnson of California, opposed the first draft of the resolution on two grounds, first, that it endorsed a "foreign meddling" gesture of the state department, and second, that it called for a senate study of "what action may be taken by the congress tending toward the cessation of the practice of bombing civilian populations."

They Condemned It.

THE first draft of 150 words was trimmed to 60 words after the two senators had a go at it in the foreign relations committee. All reference to the state department was knocked out and before debate finished even the proposed "study" of bombing problems was eliminated, leaving a mere 15-word condemnation of civilian bombing.

Johnson denounced the proposed study as an effort to have the senate draw conclusions about the war in the Orient. With that, he said, "we would be on the way to the war."

Senator Clark of Missouri, who joined the two "elders" when the bill was debated, called it "smug hypocrisy" to condemn bombing at the same time the country continues to permit bombs, planes and war materials to be shipped to the "certain Oriental nations" responsible for the bombings.

Critics argue that in the same hour the administration deals harshly with dictator nations with one hand it makes palliative gestures toward them with the other. The state department and its defenders refuse to accept any such interpretation of the policy and only recently a careful analysis by skilled observers indicated the department's policy is designed to "keep the aggressor nations guessing."

Airing In Order.

SECRETARY HULL has not concealed his view that the United States must take a positive position to make its weight felt in international affairs.

The Borah-Johnson camp, with emphatic power in the congress, argues that any policy which commits the country to one side or another of any international question is a policy leading to war. Isolation from foreign complexities is their view of the best way for the United States to encourage peace.

One critic says the country is already so committed to following British policy that the state department "bows each morning to London as devoutly as the Arabs bow to Mecca." Again, Secretary Hull has an answer for that. He asserts that coincidence of British and American policy is merely "parallel" action and not action together by agreement or compact.

One thing increasingly evident is that if the European and Japanese-Chinese issues continue acute the two views will have a big airing in the new congress.

MAKE THE CHAINS STRONGER!

Anti-Monopoly Probe Spurs Action

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON—The anti-monopoly investigation has put a burr under the justice department's tail even before the quiz has begun.

The department, for a long time, has had a lot of anti-trust cases under consideration without doing much about any of them. Maybe it realized that there was little it could accomplish under the terms of the present Sherman law or maybe it lacked sufficient evidence to act on. However, it does not appear to have tried very hard, perhaps, for no other reason than pure official dilatoriness.

But it cannot afford to be caught with a big catch of such neglected business on hand now—not with that investigation beginning.

NO "WHITEWASH"

Most of the inquisitors are administrationists, and as the administration is strongly anti-monopoly, undoubtedly they will do their best to do a thorough job. Their chairman, Senator Joseph C. O'Mahoney, is authority for the assurance that the affair will not be a witch hunt, but it will not be a whitewash, either.

On the opposite hand, the administrationistic investigators probably will refrain, as far as possible, from creating an embarrassing situation for one of the administration's own departments—the justice department.

The point is that not quite all of the investigators are administrationists.

COULD MAKE IT "HOT"

Senator William E. Borah is not.

Oh, he is New Dealerish in many of his ideas, but he is a good enough Republican not to hesitate at making a Democratic attorney general (and, through him, a Democratic White House incumbent) uncomfortable.

Senators Borah and O'Mahoney inspired this investigation.

Perhaps Borah inspired it a bit more than O'Mahoney did, although O'Mahoney technically bulks in it rather more largely than Borah, because the former is of the now dominant political party.

BORAH, THE "BURR"

O'Mahoney is middling independent.

Still, essentially he is after nothing except facts. Even if those uncovered should reveal conditions rather awkward for the justice department, I can imagine that he might be satisfied with the facts themselves, without rubbing them into Attorney General Homer S. Cummings.

Not so Senator Borah.

A MEAN QUESTION

Suppose the investigation develops a big batch of evidence indicating persistent, long-standing violations of the anti-trust law.

It would be just like Borah to say:

"All this is quite obvious, and ought to have been obvious all along to the justice department. Why hasn't it done anything?"

Which would be, in such an event, a mean question to answer.

WITH A RUSH—

Well, the department, I understand, is rushing to forestall an eventuality of this sort by getting after monopolistic suspects with a sharp stick in short order.

They say that, within 60 days, the federal courts simply will be congested with anti-trust proceedings.

The story is that the department will begin on the movie folk—the ones who, it is charged, compel movie houses to subscribe to a bunch of punk films in order to get an occasional decent one.

Of course the department will not get anywhere in 60 days.

But, when Senator Borah asks his question, it will be in a position to reply:

"Give us time. We are acting as fast as possible."

ALL of US

—By MARSHALL MASLIN

Beloved Woman.

IN OUR TOWN, the other day, a woman died.

Ours is a large city, and only ten thousand or so in this city. I suppose, of all who live in it, ever knew that this woman had been alive. Ever knew she was kind and brave and enduring and comforting—and sorrowed when she went quietly out of life.

She was a nurse. For 40 years she had stood at the bedside of the sick and strengthened them and lessened their pain and given them courage. . . . Quieted them, shamed them by her own courage, made them stronger with the medicine of the spirit that all doctors would prescribe if they knew where it is commonly obtained.

First she was a bedside nurse and then she was a superintendent of nurses, but it was said of her that she never forgot that the first job of a superintendent is not to run a cold-blooded institution, statistically perfect, but to make pain bearable for suffering men and women . . . Too many capable human beings, in becoming efficient, forget that efficiency is not the greatest end in the world . . . This woman always remembered human beings.

And when she was dying she was thinking more of others than of herself. I read in a short newspaper account of her death that "she asked that her funeral be quiet, that her friends be relieved of grief."

Thinking beyond that personal adventure of dying, she understood that she had many friends who loved her and that they would grieve for it. I know she did not regret their love for her, but it hurt her to think that because of her going, that love would be lacerated. It was a creation of kindness, of service, of friendly words, of love between living beings. She did not wish it distorted in any way. She wished her friends to remember her as she was. So she asked that the body that had served the suffering of so many in life might be allowed to go quietly into the grave.

And I, who did not ever know that woman, feel cheated of a blessing that thousands of others have had. . . . She must have been a very lovely human being.

Doctor's Thoughts On Fourth, An Historical Essay

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

THE MEDICAL profession has every right to some pride in the record that was made during the Revolutionary war. There were a number of medical men who were signers of the Declaration of Independence—among them Joshua Bartlett and Mathew Thornton of New Hampshire, Oliver Wolcott of Vermont, Benjamin Rush of Pennsylvania and Lyman Hall of Georgia.

I believe it is not generally known that it was a physician who wrote "Yankee Doodle." It is true that he was not an American nor did he ever become one. He was a surgeon in the British army, Dr. Richard Shuckburgh. He died before the Declaration of Independence was composed or before the Revolutionary war began, in Schenectady, in 1773. He was stationed with the British armies during the Indian wars in the Mohawk valley and saw service there. He spent nearly all of his life in America.

"Yankee Doodle" was said to have been written in the old Van Rensselaer house near Albany, N. Y., close to the site of old Fort Crailo. The house was standing at least a year or two ago. Apparently Dr. Shuckburgh was very much amused by the cocky ways of Colonial Americans, and he also admired their fighting ability and their courage in battle.

The tune was from an old jig well known in the eighteenth century. The first verse he wrote was:

"Yankee Doodle" is the tune
Americans delight in;
'Twill do to whistle, sing or play,
And just the thing for fighting."

When actual hostilities began between the British and the Colonial troops the tune was played first by way of contempt. We have this on the word of another medical man, James Thatcher, whose Military Journal is the best authority we have for certain aspects of the Revolution.

The British did not, however, long play "Yankee Doodle" by way of contempt because the American troops took it up and glorified in it. "'Yankee Doodle' is now their poem," says a British observer in 1777, "a favorite of favorites, played in their army, esteemed as warlike as the 'Grenadier's March' . . . After our rapid successes we held the Yankees in great contempt, and it was not a little mortifying to hear them play this tune, when their army marched down to our surrender."

We offer this little historical essay in lieu of the usual warnings against the dangers of the Fourth of July. These warnings should now be pretty well stereotyped and well known. If you do not regard them, it is your own fault if you get hurt. At the present time we need more warnings against the reckless driving on such holidays as the Fourth of July than we do against firecrackers.

The number of people killed by fireworks since 1900 is greater than the number of American soldiers killed in the Revolutionary war.

What'll Cure the Corner Gang?

(Rose Rudick and George Totten Answer.)

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

WHAT'S the greatest drain on America's treasury, America's decency? CRIME! And where does that crime start? Any youngster knows the answer—

IN THE CORNER GANG. In the idle bodies, the empty pockets, the covetous, resentful mind of the street-corner loafer, gazing at a glittering life he may not share.

Clean up that Corner Gang and you'll cut off the most dangerous source of Sin and Sedition in America; stop the thugs and traitors before they start. But how may it be done. Two Young Americans give the answer today. First comes Rose Rudick of Pittsburgh, Pa., wise beyond her 20 years.

"THERE IS JUST ONE WAY TO BREAK UP THE STREET-CORNER GANG, AND THAT IS BY MAKING OUR HOMES MORE ATTRACTIVE.

"Boys and girls aren't born bad. They're MADE BAD by slovenly homes . . . gadabout mothers . . . unfair, nagging parents who make a kid feel that he or she isn't wanted.

"A CLEAN, ATTRACTIVE HOME WHERE A YOUNGSTER CAN BRING HIS FRIENDS . . . PARENTS WHO SYMPATHIZE WITH HIS ADOLESCENT PROBLEMS AND RESPECT HIS PRIVACY . . . THESE THINGS ARE AS NECESSARY TO A BOY OR A GIRL AS FOOD OR AIR.

"It is no wonder that a youngster, grown up in an atmosphere of poverty, filth, drunkenness, neglect, should turn to street-corner gang for thrills and excitement that are a poor substitute for a happy home life.

"MAKE THE HOME A DESIRABLE PLACE, WARM WITH KINDNESS AND LOVE, AND YOU'LL SAVE YOUNG AMERICA FROM THE STREET CORNER GANG THAT EVENTUALLY LEADS TO CRIME."

Rose Dudick—aged 20,
237 Wick St.,
Pittsburgh, Pa.

Fine advice which should make a selfish parent pause.

BUT how about homes so overcrowded and poverty-stricken that there can be no hospitality, no privacy, no rest or harmony? How about the youngster who is away from home? What's the answer to HIS problem?

"YOUTH CLUBS AS FINE AS THE Y. M. C. A., Y. W. C. A., AND SIMILAR ASSOCIATIONS, BUT INEXPENSIVE ENOUGH FOR THE AVERAGE FELLOW TO USE," says George F. Totten of Gelena, Calif.

And George knows whereof he speaks for, at twelve, he was forced to leave such an impoverished home and seek his own living. Up at 5 a. m., off to the factory where he drudged until 5 or 5:30 p. m., then back to the dreary room, the unappetizing meal, the quarreling or exhausted family—that was his daily round, as it is the daily round of millions.

But Youth is Youth. No matter how weary or poor, it longs for and needs adventure, fun, companionship. But where shall such a boy find them? The corner loafing spot is a cesspool of filthy stories, criminal planning, seditious propaganda. The boy who stays with that gang is doomed. Where, then, should he go?

"INTO CLUBS WHICH FIT HIS NEED AND WHICH HE CAN AFFORD," says George Totten. "No normal kid prefers to stick around and rot. Of course we have the Y. M. and the Y. W.; but what penniless kid has the dough to pay their fees after he's paid the old folks and met his union fees?

"IT'S UP TO AMERICA TO SUPPLY THE CLUBS WHICH WILL LICK THE CORNER GANG! AND IT'S A BLACK BLOT ON AMERICA'S RECORD THAT SHE HASN'T DONE SO ALREADY. NO, I'M NOT SNEERING AT MY COUNTRY. BUT I'M TELLING YOU—THERE'S MANY A REGULAR FELLOW AND FINE GIRL WHO WILL END UP IN PRISON AND ROT AT THE COUNTRY'S EXPENSE, SIMPLY BECAUSE HE OR SHE DIDN'T HAVE A DECENT PLACE TO GO AFTER THE DAY'S DRUDGERY WAS DONE!"

George F. Totten,
Gelena, Calif.

No truer thing than that was ever said, son. And here's one American citizen who'd give a piece of her heart if she had the wherewithal to establish such a club, no matter how humble. Perhaps—here's hoping — someone who has, will read George's letter and dare to GO INTO COMPETITION AGAINST THAT CORNER GANG.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Says Officer No. 3624, New York police department:

"The firemen beat us in the annual baseball game the other day, but then they don't have much to do but sit around and think about playing baseball . . . I made a mistake when I became a cop . . . I should have joined the fire department and taken life easy . . . Can you imagine riding around on a big truck and getting paid for it? They don't do much of that either . . . Every time I see a fireman he's sunning himself in a chair before the station door, reading a newspaper . . . Boy, what a life! What a life!"

Says Fireman Frank Harris, Chambers Street station:

"Sure, we beat them flatfeet. I guess they don't keep in condition. What do they do anyway? Walk around and swing a stick . . . That must be gravy, pure gravy . . . Wish I had that kind of gravy, just walking around and swinging a stick . . . Personally, my back aches from shining brass on Big Betsy . . . And I've got the misery in my left knee from chasing fires on winter nights . . . It makes a man stiff and sore . . . It takes his appetite . . . It's about the hardest work you can imagine . . . But them cops . . . Why, those lazy bums would turn over and yell Uncle the first day if they had to work the way we do.

"I've been swinging this hack till I got blisters in my hands, and a stitch in my side . . . I drive it so long on some days that I get dizzy in the head, and then I have to lay off to keep from wrecking the cab and killing somebody . . . But I don't mind the work so much, or the long hours, or even the small pay . . . It's them cops that burn me up . . . You can't turn a corner without one of 'em yelling at you . . . And that sarcastic way they talk to you . . . I don't like cops anyway . . . What do they know about hacking? . . . Where do they come off yelling at us guys? . . . If those flatfeet worked half as hard as we do they couldn't eat their suppers at night . . . All it takes to be a cop is the ability to yell loud and bawl somebody out . . . Maybe they have to do that to keep from going crazy . . . Maybe it's a distraction for 'em . . . Maybe it sort of breaks the monotony . . . The Lord knows they haven't anything else to do . . . They don't do any work . . . Boy, what a easy way to make dough . . . Just walk around and scowl at people and make noises . . . Them guys has got it easy . . . almost as easy as the firemen."

"This is probably the hardest work you can find . . . Even when we aren't actually waiting on a customer we have to stand erect and at attention . . . That takes it out of a man . . . You hear a lot about our New York police who have to 'pound beats,' as they say . . . Well, that's all right when you're outside, walking . . . Then you've got something to take your mind off your job . . . You see color, life melodrama . . . But here, we just stand . . . It's pretty exhausting, and pretty monotonous . . . I guess perhaps I should have been a policeman after all."

TYPHOON ADDS TO HORRORS ON JAPANESE ISLES

Rains, Earthquake Take Lives of 100; Hurricane Warning Posted at Seaports.

(By Associated Press)

TOKYO—A typhoon howled over Japan's islands today in the wake of two days of horror in which at least 100 persons were killed and 200 others were missing.

Tokyo was virtually isolated by the heaviest deluge of rain in Japan's recorded history and by an earthquake which levelled homes and disrupted rail and wire communications.

The Central Meteorological institute warned all cities in southern Japan to be prepared for the tropical hurricane blowing northward across the China Sea.

It said the winds would strike late this afternoon unless they were deflected. Most liners and larger freighters remained tied at their docks in Yokohama.

300,000 Homes Leveled.

A police survey showed a total of 297,379 houses destroyed or damaged throughout the nation and 104 bridges down.

Belated reports from the north indicated there had been a second earthquake and a nation-wide total of at least 177 landslides.

Most of the deaths were in Tokyo and Yokohama. In both cities landslides crumpled homes. A railroad tunnel collapsed near Tokyo and a main line road bed was washed away. Many rivers burst their banks, imperilling other homes beneath undermined cliffs.

More than 12 inches of rain fell, flooding 150,000 homes in Tokyo alone. The rain, greatest in 60 years, had slackened early this afternoon but roaring winds were growing steadily.

Rivers still were high and police forcibly removed families from lowland homes and areas endangered by further landslides, the cause of most of the casualties.

The landslides in Tokyo and Yokohama were the worst disasters.

Eighteen persons were crushed or smothered in the heart of Tokyo when part of the estate of Baron Takakimi Mitsui slipped shortly after the earthquake. Forty others were entombed and their fate was not known.

Wooster President to Recall M'Guffey Readers In Talk

Dr. Charles F. Wishart, president of Wooster college, learned to read the McGuffey readers in grade schools at Ontario and Hayesville, and next Sunday he will tell of their influence in a lecture before the Federation of McGuffey societies at Dearborn, Mich.

Selections from the famous school readers played an important part in helping Dr. Wishart to win a national oratorical contest in college and later to become a public speaker, he said.

As a guest of Henry Ford, who has one of the finest collections of McGuffey readers in the nation, Dr. Wishart will speak Sunday morning on "The Influence—Religious and Moral, of the McGuffey Readers."

The invitation to Dr. Wishart, which came from F. L. Black, of the Edison Institute at Dearborn, stated that the Wooster president had three things in common with McGuffey, author of the school readers. Each had been a Presbyterian minister, a teacher and a college president.

"I learned to read when I was four years old," Dr. Wishart said, "and when I entered school at nearly seven years of age, I had read through the fourth reader, so I started in school reading the fifth reader."

SHELBY—Shelby police today were looking for the thief who stole a radio and flashlight valued at $24 from the Standard Oil filling station on North Gamble street some time last night.

Howard Guthrie, manager of the station, reported to police that he discovered the robbery this mornnig when he opened the station for business. A rear window had been broken to gain entrance to the building, police stated.

Several weeks ago a similar robbery occurred in the Eagle's hall when approximately $60 worth of cigarets were stolen, police said.

Those treated at the General hospital for lacerations and bruises were the driver, Stanley Carnes, 22, Miss Alice Valentine, 20, and Miss Ann Bitz, 22, all of Columbus.

Police said the three were en route from Cleveland to Columbus when Carnes fell asleep at the wheel and the car plunged over the curb and into the pole.

3,000,000 Share Day Looms as Traders Start Furious Buying Spree.

ion this might be "a 3,000,000-share day," so furious was the trading. In fact, the early volume was large enough to encourage those who believed a 4,000,000 share day would be seen this week to expect that this is the day.

The steel group scored some of the widest gains, despite pessimistic predictions made by a few steel company executives, Ernest T. Weir, chairman of the board of National Steel, predicted for example that recent drastic cuts in the price of steel products will not stimulate the demand for steel.

Such price cuts had been announced by subsidiaries of United States Steel. It was noteworthy, however, that U. S. Steel was viewed with favor by buyers of stocks because it was felt in some sources that the leading manufacturer would obtain advantages over its competitors through elimination of price differentials between basing point centers.

Factors making for better feeling in Wall Street included:

1.—Assurances from the administration in Washington to business leaders that it has no aim to fix prices or control production.

2.—The fact the biggest peacetime fund in the country's history will be available tomorrow when $12,350,000,000 will be set aside to meet appropriations for government functions.

3.—Increased housing active. A $2,600,000,000 slum clearance program was to be urged on New York City today by the citizens housing council. The plan envisions 20,000 new apartment buildings a year for twenty years.

4.—The prediction of Senator Burton K. Wheeler (D.) of Montana that President Roosevelt's spend and lend program will bring prosperity to the entire nation.

LONDON —(INS)— Count Court Haugwitz-Reventlow is planning to come to London tomorrow and face the warrant for his arrest issued by the Countess, it was learned today.

That he will not be actually taken into custody, however, after he gives an understanding not to disturb the peace, was understood.

Until arrangements for the "peace pledge," which the Countess, the former Barbara Hutton of New York, sought in connection with the custody of their son, Lance, can be completed, the Count is remaining in Paris.

Ringling Circus Goes Home

Last tents of the "Greatest Show on Earth," Ringling Brothers-Barnum & Bailey circus, come down at Scranton, Pa., and are folded away for shipment to winter quarters. Strike of 1,600 roustabouts and performers, following 25 per cent wage reduction, led to the closing of the circus in Scranton and announcement by John Ringling North, present operator of the show, that the circus could not go on. Union employes of the circus announced they would file a damage suit for $100,000 against the management for alleged violation of wage agreement.

CHECKERS OUT, FIREMEN TURN TO STUDIES NOW IN SPARE TIME

Once upon a time all a fireman had to do was to dash to the fires, turn on the hose and when the blaze was out go back to the engine house and resume his game of checkers or pinochle.

"Yes—those were the days," sighed Fire Chief Charles J. Seeburger as he poured over specifications on a new pumper that the city is going to buy.

"All that poppycock about firemen loafing around the station and playing checkers is the bunk," the chief says. "Today a firefighter has to keep up with modern fire fighting methods and equipment in order to hold his job."

He enumerated just a few of the things a fireman must learn. These, he said include constant study in mathematics, hydraulics, chemistry, fire and life hazards, ventilation problems, auxiliary fire protection installations, fire investigations, fire laws, life saving, public relations, salvage and tactics.

"That's the situation today," he said. "The blackboard has replaced the checkerboard and the training manual the pinochle deck. Why in the past few years hundreds of materials and devices, some highly technical in nature, have been invented that are hazardous to life and property, and we have had to dig into books and find out all about their intricacies in order to know how to handle them."

He added that all city firemen are schooled at regular intervals on the various subjects so that they will know exactly what to do when a fire breaks out in a building full of dangerous chemicals or explosives; which way, and how soon a crumbling wall may fall, how to make rescues scientifically, figure hose pressure correctly, and a score of other things that books have helped them to learn.

IMPROVEMENT OF STREETS SOUGHT

Property Owners Submit Two Petitions to City Council.

City council had before it today two requests from property owners on Park avenue west from Mulberry street to Bowman street seeking improvements on the streets.

One petition on file with Council Clerk William J. Beer, jr., asked that council pass the necessary legislation authorizing the widening of the street from Bowman to Mulberry street to conform with the width from Mulberry to Main street. The petition, signed by eight property owners and circulated by R. B. Gardner, asks for federal aid.

Another petition bearing the signatures of the same property owners asks that the city white way lighting be extended from Mulberry street to Bowman street.

JURORS CLEAR MEECHY, BAND

Crawford Panel Refuses to Indict Orchestra Leader, Aids on Shooting Count.

BUCYRUS—Charges of shooting with intent to kill, filed against "Montana" Meechy, cowboy band leader, and six members of his band, were ignored here today by the Crawford county grand jury when the jury failed to return indictments against the seven musicians.

Meechy and his bandsmen were out under bond of $4,500 after remaining in the Crawford county jail for one week. Charges were filed by Kenzel McClenathan, 22, Galion, who told officers that Meechy hit him over the head with the butt of a revolver and another member of the band shot at him during a quarrel at Sugar Grove lake, near Bucyrus.

Hearing 25 cases, during which 61 witnesses were examined, the grand jury returned 16 indictments, one of which was a John Doe indictment. Those against whom indictments were returned are: James Joseph Downing, Galion, breaking and entering; H. A. Moberly, Galion, obtaining money under false pretenses; John Gregg, Galion, Richard Morton, Crestline, Franklin Garverick, Galion, robbery; Paul Pine, Don Pierson, Glen Crissinger, all of Marion, assault with intent to rape; O. D. McClain and Ora Myers, both of North Lewisburg, O., operating a motor vehicle under the influence of liquor.

Charles Bergstedt, Bucyrus, neglect to provide for minor children; George Hill, Galion, embezzlement; Al Ballard, Bucyrus and John Doe, burglary, and Virgil Stoltz, Bucyrus, manslaughter in the second degree.

JURORS TO GET DRIVING CASE

Panel to Be Called in July to Consider Action; 3 Victims Leave Hospital.

The county grand jury probably will be called into session during the week of July 11 to consider manslaughter charges against Richard Strohminger, 19, Mansfield, in connection with the traffic death of Mrs. Ada Kovachy, of Cleveland, three weeks ago, Assistant Prosecutor Harold T. Lutz said today.

Plans to call the jury at an earlier date had been abandoned, Lutz said, because there are only four cases on the docket awaiting jury action. The others are for minor offenses.

Strohminger, who is still in the county jail under $2,000 bond, was arrested after an automobile he was driving collided head-on with another car on Lexington avenue at the city limits, June 11.

Mrs. Kovachy died a few hours later of injuries suffered in the crash, while her three companions were released today at Mansfield General hospital where they have received treatment since the accident.

They are Miss Mary Kovachy, Miss Helen Kovachy, and Mrs. J. C. Turk, all of Cleveland.

GEN. BULLARD RANKS GERMAN ARMY HIGHEST

Mussolini's Troops Nearly as Efficient, Declares A. E. F. Veteran.

(By United Press)

ATLANTA, Ga.—Adolf Hitler's armed forces are the most highly-trained and represent the cream of the world's soldiers today, Lieut.-Gen. Robert Lee Bullard believes.

Mussolini's Fascist army is not far behind in military efficiency, Bullard said on a visit here.

"Those who write and think that Hitler's men are not well-trained are mistaken," the general said. "Immediately after the war, the German nation had to limit its armed resources to a small force. This force it trained thoroughly in every phase of war—cavalry, infantry, aircraft and motorized units.

"When Hitler threw off the yoke of the treaty of Versailles a few years ago, these trained men were used to train others. Today, his army is not a sham. It is one of the finest in the world, representing the brains and brawn of Germany."

Heads Security League.

Gen. Bullard said it is his duty as president of the National Security League to keep up with the international situation and he has traveled in many countries watching military developments.

The fighting ability of the Chinese is "pure bosh," Gen. Bullard asserted. He thinks the famous "Hindenburg line" of Chiang Kai-Shek doesn't exist.

"The Japanese have been taking China on time table schedules," he said. "They took Shanghai, then Nanking, and now they are flanking the famous 'Hindenburg line' as steadily as soldiers can march."

Gen. Bullard believes there is little danger of the United States being attacked within the next decade by any country, but he advocates the three "M's" for which the army is now working—mechanization, motorization, and modernization.

He was a brigadier general when America entered the World War, commanding the 2nd Brigade, 1st Division. Two months later he was made a major general and in December, 1917 he became commander of the famous 1st Division.

Bullard's troops fought at Cantigny and captured this French village. In July, 1918, he took over command of the 1st and 2d Divisions. He led this corps into the battle of Soissons.

On Oct. 11, 1918, Bullard won the three stars of a lieutenant general and became the commander of the 2d American army, a post he held until its demobilization on April 15, 1918.

Books For Children

(Available at Mansfield Public Library)

Small boys and girls, who like dogs and cats, will thoroughly enjoy two new books, written expressly for them:

"BABETTE" by Clare Turley Newberry, tells of an endearing Siamese kitten (creamy white, trimmed in brown) who made a lonely little girl's Saturdays—the best part of the week.

The other book is "MR. HEINIE" by Aldarilla S. Beistle. It's not hard to guess that Mr. Heinie is a Dachshund, with a shinny black coat. Some people think him handsome, but others say that he looks just like a sausage!

Babette and Mr. Heinie will make many friends and bring more than one chuckle from the reader.

Book of the Week

"We Lived As Children," by Kathryn Hulme; (Knopf. $2.50.

There will be few novels this summer as fine as Kathryn Hulme's "We Lived as Children." Or perhaps it is not a novel but a study in portraiture.

It is simple to say what the book is about, and not at all simple to suggest the effect it makes. Miss Hulme has put on paper an American family. She begins her story in San Francisco at the time of the earthquake, and ends it in war times. Queerly, she has escaped the almost inevitable pitfall of the novelist chiefly interested in color and character—her people do not remain exactly the same; they really grow, even the adults.

There are five people in the family, not to mention some very delightful ones outside the immediate circle. These five are a mother who has divorced her husband, and undertaken the job of bringing up three children, a difficult job if the children had not been so delightful; there are the three children, and there is the father, who comes into the family only through his visits to the children. He is a little mad, one of those intense and erratic fathers who should never marry at all, and invariably marry time after time.

The children are, of course, the center of the story. Jen is the beauty, the oldest and the least intelligent. She gets what she needs by feminine means, and for that reason develops least of all in the years of the novel. The narrator is Jen's sister Tom, probably the best job of characterization in the book because she comes out an evidently sensitive child of much charm without seeming a precious little fool. And there is Buster, alias Buzz, who also has charm, is not without sensitivity, and still is an extraordinary human and reasonable chap.

These are the people. San Francisco, Miss Hulme sketches in with deliberate vagueness, choosing only those things which genuinely point up her narrative. The small parts are subtly devised, the writing is frank and such matters as the dawning consciousness of sex in the minds of the three youngsters are perfectly managed—perfectly because Miss Hulme has had the sense to call a spade a spade, but not to shriek about it.

In short, a novel for anybody who doesn't read with his lips.

Puts Annexation of Boulevards Up to City Council

A petition submitted by residents in the South Boulevards addition seeking annexation to the city today had been tossed into the lap of city council by the city planning commission.

Meeting in the office of Mayor Claude M Hunter yesterday, the commission ordered the petition returned to council

Service-Safety Director Tracy C Styert, secretary of the commission, said the board had approved the plat in 1925 and that it had no jurisdiction over the annexation of any property to the corporation.

Hearing on the petition was referred to the planning commission by council two months ago after Richland county commissioners had approved the application.

The commission also referred to County Engineer Howard C. Sword a petition from Reid Gates seeking the approval of a sub-division off Ashland road, two miles north of Mansfield. Styert said the plat was approved for a 60-foot road in place of the proposed 40-foot roadway, which will be included in the county road system.

On recommendations from City Engineer W. C. Statler the commission also approved the relocation of Green street.

PUTS OKAY ON 3 BOND ISSUES

State Authorizes Vote On Proposals In Nearby Counties.

The Prairie rural board in Holmes county is requesting approval of a proposed $18,000 bond issue for school building improvements and the Perry rural board in Morrow county will submit a proposal for $22,000 to supplement PWA funds for a new school.

HEART ON HER SLEEVE

By ALMA SIOUX SCARBERRY

(Copyright, 1938)

CHAPTER VIII

"You're the type that attracts men like a flower attracts bees." With amusement Mignon watched the younger girl make her toilette. "And you'll certainly never grow old with all that hard work you're putting in on your face and neck."

"I like your Sunny," Moleen said as she rubbed cream into her hands and arms. "He's the happiest looking human I've ever seen."

"He's a darling," Mignon agreed. "And he liked you too, or he wouldn't have asked you to lunch. Sunny has scads of women after him. But he is very particular about whom he takes out."

"He's just being kind," Moleen yawned. "Because I'm a friend of yours."

"Sez you."

"Sez me."

Mignon stood up and stretched. Then she bent over and gave Moleen a quick kiss on the cheek.

"Good night, honey! Have a good sleep."

Moleen felt a big lump coming into her throat. She threw her arms around her benefactress and said with a little cry, "Oh, Mignon! Where would I be now if you hadn't found me? You've been so good."

Mignon held her close, deeply moved.

"You're giving me just as much happiness as I'm giving you, Molly. Please believe that. I needed a companion so much. Some one to live here with me and keep me from being so terribly lonesome."

"Promise me," Moleen begged in a muffled little voice, "That we'll always be good friends. No matter what happens."

Mignon laughed lightly.

"Silly! Of course I promise. If I didn't believe in you we wouldn't be such good friends."

Moleen lay awake a long time, her emotions a mixture of happiness and worry. Why did Charlie Farro have to turn up, just when for the first time in her life she was getting a break?

Would there really be a chance for her to help Pat? She'd almost given up hope. His term in the reformatory seemed so dreadfully final. Even in her sleep she seemed to see Charlie Farro and hear him saying:

"Say, Toots, you're in the swellest spot in New York! If you play your cards right, you can spring Pat in no time . . . If it hadn't been for Laine's clean-up."

There she was, under the same roof with the man who had been responsible for Pat's being sent away. And indirectly responsible for the death of her mother from heart failure. She had died the day after Patsy left. Or had Mr. Laine really had anything to do with those two great tragedies as Farro said? If so, she really should hate him.

It was dawn before Moleen really slept, and almost noon when Mignon came in and awakened her.

"We've got to get ready for our dates, lazy bones!" She pulled the cover off her. "Do you want to stand Sunny up?"

Moleen was a picture in all white. Sunny decided she was like a wild Irish rose and told her so. Although he admitted he'd never seen a wild Irish rose and wasn't quite certain whether it might be something to eat, drink or wear.

However atrocious his compliments, they were gladly received and Moleen reveled in lunch at a fashionable hotel — strange new sights and people. It was amazing to Sunny, knowing from Mignon something of the atmosphere of poverty Moleen had been brought up in, that she seemed so at home surrounded by luxury. There was nothing in her speech or manner to betray her background. Sunny decided she must have had a mother who had seen better days.

Which was true. Mrs. O'Dare had been a well educated woman, from a good middle class family. Her own father and mother had objected strenuously when she married Pat O'Dare. They had predicted he would never amount to much. But he was good and kind and earned steady money and Kathleen Murphy loved him. So she got her own way.

When he died at 27 and left her with two children, her pride would not allow her to go back and live with her people who had been so unkind to the man she adored. Trouble stalked her heels all her miserable poverty-stricken life, but she kept her pride until the day her weak heart stopped beating.

That evening, Mignon accepted another invitation from Farro to go out dancing. With a worried Moleen, she and Charlie drove out to the Wayside Inn to join Sunny and hear Jed sing.

Mignon's cheeks blossomed under Charlie's expert flattery. Wearing his orchids on her lemon chiffon gown, she was radiant with excitement. Sunny played special music for their dancing, and told them they looked like professionals.

Jed was as big a hit as he had been the evening before. But, watching Moleen dancing with Charlie Farro, he was struck again with her serious face. He could have sworn they were having an argument. Definitely, he made up his mind, there was something about Farro he did not like.

He was too handsome for one thing, Jed decided, and looked like a phony. He made up his mind that after his next number he was going to have a talk with Moleen about him. If she really was worried, he wanted to know why.

Dancing with Farro, Moleen was flabbergasted when, holding her a little too close, Charlie bragged:

"Your little friend Mignon is falling for me like a ton of bricks! I'm beginning to wonder if it wouldn't be a good idea if we eloped."

"Charlie!" Moleen gasped. "You're not serious!"

"That's what you think," Farro smiled. "Don't you think it'd be good for my business to be married into the Laine family? With my pappy-in-law district attorney of New York!"

"You're crazy," Moleen snapped. "Mignon wouldn't marry you. She wouldn't elope with anybody."

"How much do you want to bet? In another week I'll have her going around with her heart on her sleeve. I know her type exactly.

Jed, seeing the stricken look on Moleen's face as she danced by, walked over and tapped Charlie on the shoulder.

"Mind if I cut in, Farro?"

Looking a little surprised, Charlie bowed.

"Not at all, Patrick. I'll join Miss Laine."

Jed danced Moleen to the door and, taking her by the hand, led her down the walk and to the same bench she and Farro had occupied the night before.

It was a relief to get away from Charlie. She sighed.

"It's a lovely night," she said. Thanks for bringing me out to see the moon."

Jed studied her face in the moonlight for a moment in silence. Then he asked suddenly, "Moleen, how long have you really known Farro?"

"All my life," she answered truthfully, a little surprised.

"Then," Jed questioned quietly, "why are you afraid of him?"

"Why," Moleen started. "I—I'm not afraid of him. Don't be silly."

"You're worried about him. I can see it in your face every time you dance with him. And I knew it last night. I saw him trying to catch your eye, and I saw you jump when you recognized him."

Moleen was trapped. She tried to sound flippant.

"Now Sherlock Holmes, don't imagine things!"

Jed took her by the shoulders. "Mascot! Don't try to wriggle out of answering me. I'm going to find out what's worrying you. I don't like the looks of Farro, and I know you don't like him. If you don't tell me the truth, I'm going to have a talk with him."

"Oh, no!" Moleen said frantically. "You—mustn't Jed. Please. Please don't ask Charlie any questions. Don't make him angry."

Don't Keep on Having Constipation!

If constipation's got you down—so you feel heavy, tired and dopey—it's time you did something about it. And something more than taking a physic! You should get at the cause of the trouble.

If you eat only the things most people do, the chances are that a very simple fact causes your constipation—you don't get enough "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean heavy food. It means a kind of food that isn't consumed in the body, but leaves a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines and helps a bowel movement.

If this is your trouble, eat crisp crunchy Kellogg's All-Bran for breakfast every day and drink plenty of water. All-Bran is not only rich in "bulk"—it also contains the natural intestinal tonic, vitamin B1.

Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek. Sold by every grocer.

State 'Broke', 3,800 Employes Face Payless Pay Day

CHECKS MUST WAIT TILL TAX FUNDS ARRIVE

Auditor Says $300,000 June Payroll Menaced by State's Empty Coffers.

(By United Press)

COLUMBUS—Depletion of the state's general revenue fund to the vanishing point will mean a delay of several days in meeting the $300,000 June welfare institution payroll and a lag of nearly a month in paying other bills, State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson predicted today.

Warning that the general revenue fund "is broke," Ferguson said it was doubtful whether June salary payments could be made on schedule July 5 to about 3,800 institutional employes.

He found it necessary to transfer $160,000 from the undivided intangibles tax fund to meet old age pension grants this month in 22 counties. This was necessary, Ferguson said, because of insufficient federal matching funds, traceable to incorrect estimates of the state old age pension division of the need for federal money. Delayed checks will reach pensioners in a day or so, he added.

Sees Possible Aid.

Ferguson said he hoped early collections of taxes on foreign insurance companies and domestic and foreign business franchises would make payment of institutional workers possible "by July 9 or 10." Other bills, it was indicated, might have to go over until August when additional collections are expected to raise the fund to perhaps $5,000,000 or $6,000,000.

Welfare workers may suffer because their payroll is presented last each month. Employes of other departments probably will receive their checks on time as sufficient funds were on hand when their pay vouchers came in.

For the past six months it has been necessary for the state to finance a deficit in old age pension funds amounting to $400,000, Ferguson said, because federal money was not available in adequate amounts.

It was understood that of the $400,000 the federal government would pay in approximately $281,000 by the end of next month and the balance in October.

The auditor's office showed a balance of only $119,358 in the general revenue fund with vouchers in excess of that amount outstanding. Expenditures have reduced it by approximately $4,000,000 since June 1. It has decreased steadily since March 1, when the total stood at $8,800,000.

Mansfield Entry In Grotto Event Finishes Seventh

Miss Vivian Walter, 310 Purdy street, selected as an alternate in the recent contest to select a Miss Mansfield, placed seventh in a beauty contest to select a "Miss Ohio" last night in the Cleveland Municipal stadium as a part of the 49th annual International Grotto convention.

Miss Marlyn Meseke, 20, of Marion, was chosen "Miss Ohio," and Miss Evelyn Bertelsbech, 18, was named "Miss Cleveland." Both winners were awarded a statuette, and will later participate in the contest to select a "Miss America" at Atlantic City.

Others who placed in the "Miss Ohio" contest and the order in which they finished are: Betty Luce, Zanesville; Beverly Woodard, Ashland; Edith Frick, Wooster; Maxine Drumm, Bucyrus, and Catherine Graham, Akron.

Also participating in the contest from Mansfield were Edna Keller, "Miss Mansfield," and Thelma Wiley, her other alternate. They were selected in a contest held last Wednesday at Seccaium park.

At closing sessions of the convention, the Grotto installed Edward Blake Winter of Toronto, Canada, as grand monarch. A number of members of Baku Grotto of Mansfield, attended the convention and program and parade last night.

CHECK ROBBERIES AT TWO CONCERNS

Business Establishments Looted During Night, Police Told.

Police today were investigating the burglary of two north end business establishments in which merchandise valued at $25 was taken.

At the Mathews Oil company, 302 North Mulberry street, thieves entered the station for the second time in six weeks and carried off ten gallons of motor oil valued at $13.75. Entrance was gained by breaking a rear window.

Officials at the Hanley Milling company, 272 North Mulberry street yesterday reported to police that five sacks of flour and 75 empty bags valued at $11 was taken from a storeroom in the warehouse.

Schuschnigg Faces Trial, Nazi Leader Says

Up and Down THE STREET

Although it wasn't specified in the contracts to be let for the purchase of a new pumper for the fire department within the next few days, Mayor Claude M. Hunter, who believes in patronizing Mansfield industries, said today that the new truck would be equipped with Mansfield tires made right here at home.

One Madison township family might be independent this winter if it had a little help now, and it's possible that someone may be able to give that aid. A man who has several acres of ground, a house and some farm equipment wants to raise potatoes to sell and to provide food for his family—but he has been unable to buy late seed potatoes or vegetable plants. Anyone who has plants to give or seed potatoes at a reasonable price, may reach the man by calling Joe Hartline at Canal 3596.

A collection of shells from the United States, Hawaii and Japan, and novelties made from shells is on display at Mansfield Public Library. Elaine Watson, R. D. No. 2, Mansfield, has gathered them during the past year, many being gifts from friends' collections. Part of the collection was on exhibition at the Y. M. C. A. Hobby Show and won 2nd prize in the natural history section. Some of the shells are exceptionally lovely, in delicate pink and in mother-of-pearl.

It's probably the influence of the historical cavalcade which he is directing for the Fourth of July celebration, or perhaps the movies, that crept into the birth announcement designed by J. Gilbert Baird after the birth of his daughter, Suzanne, this month. Instead of the usual dainty two by three card, the Baird announcement is a "three-sheet" poster, sent out in an envelope measuring 12 by 15. The "production" of "Suzanne Baird" is announced as terrific, colossal, stupendous and gigantic, the "gay, bubbling, surprise package of the season," in "natural colors," a Lucille and Gilbert production. And it is stated that "any similarity to other persons is coincidental."

PUNISHES 2 FOR VOTE ACTIVITY

Hopkins Says WPA Straw Bosses Criticized for Action in Kentucky Election.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — Harry Hopkins announced today that two WPA straw-bosses in Kentucky had been punished for playing politics.

Hopkins responded specifically to charges contained in a recent series of newspaper articles. These allegations mentioned partisans of both Sen. Alben W. Barkley, the administration floor leader, and Gov. A. B. Chandler, who are waging a hot campaign for the Democratic senatorial nomination in Kentucky.

Hopkins said the two WPA workers involved were Lee Carden, chief supervisor for the Edmonson county district, and Cleve Keeney, foreman in the Newport district.

Evidence showed, Hopkins said, that Carden had distributed among WPA workers registration cards designed to procure political information.

"We have taken steps to see that this man minds his own business," the WPA administrator said. "He was told that 'any such activity on his part in the future would result in his being fired'."

Keeney, the statement said, discussed with one of his subordinates a meeting addressed by Chandler and remarked that "the fellows on the job are going to have to support Barkley if they are going to stay on the WPA."

Hopkins said that State Administrator Goodman had been instructed "to take the necessary punitive action."

O. S. R. INMATE JAILED IN EAST

Youth Who Escaped From Reformatory Accused Of Theft.

A Mansfield reformatory inmate who escaped from the farm dormitory 10 weeks ago today had been sentenced to six months in jail at Bristol, Conn., on charges of auto theft, dispatches to The News-Journal today said.

The fugitive is Donald Russell, 21, who was received at the reformatory March 10, 1937, from Summit county, to serve a one to 20 year term for auto theft. He escaped from the farm dormitory April 6.

Supt. Arthur L. Glattke said he had not been notified of the capture and did not know whether guards would be sent to Connecticut to return Russell to complete his sentence here.

Three building permits with a total estimated valuation of $750 were issued at city hall yesterday. They went to Michael DiSanze, 15 State street for a residence addition to cost $600, R. S. Lemley, rear 323 South Main street, for a garage valued at $75, and to Harvey Dickson, North Walnut street, for an office addition to cost $75.

DIGS UP 76-YEAR-OLD DEED TO PROVE TITLE TO 80-ACRE FARM

A deed for 80 acres of land in Washington township, conveyed by the governor of Ohio to the late Robert Taylor of Richland county, 76 years ago, was filed yesterday with County Recorder Howard Wenning to clear the present owner's title to the property.

For several years, W. L. Wiles, Washington township farmer, thought he owned the property, and it wasn't until recently, when he attempted to sell an acre of it, that he found he had no proof of ownership.

His search for the original deed to clear his title brought a copy of the governor's deed from the state auditor to Mansfield for recording in the county records.

The land, originally part of the Virginia Military School lands, owned by the state, was purchased by Taylor in 1862 for $160, or $2 an acre. David Tod was governor of Ohio at the time.

The paper filed with Recorder Wenning is more than twice the size of the regulation deed and is only a copy of the original deed which was signed by Gov. Tod.

Thomas J. McDermott, manager of the Guarantee Title company, who filed the deed, said his investigation had revealed that a few parcels of state-owned land still exists in Richland county, with the operators of the farms on them leasing the property.

Income from the lands provided for the upkeep of public schools in the pioneer days of the county, McDermott said.

DRILL TODAY

Fourth of July Acts Rehearse for Pageant Tonight.

The first general rehearsal for the Fourth of July cavalcade will take place tonight at the Fairground, bringing together most of the acts that have been rehearsing individually.

Guardsmen of Battery D, under the command of Capt. Robert Nichols, will turn out for practice of their advance into No Man's Land; Edith Fletcher Jameson and the members of the Singers club will rehearse with the Musicians' band under the direction of Laurence Todd, and the Mansfield high school band, under the leadership of J. Merton Holcombe, will match the strains of "Tramp, Tramp, Tramp" to the accompaniment of Union and Confederate soldiers marching.

The Hedges Mothersingers will do the stately minuet and Eddie Fisher, former minstrel man, will try out "Good Bye Ma, Good Bye Pa" over the Neil Ruhl public address system, which will be used the night of the Fourth for the historical program.

J. Gilbert Baird, director of the show, said today that when all of the performers were listed there were 312 participants instead of the estimated 200.

Two narrators, Ferd Loykovich and Al Stefanik, of the Mansfield Community Players group, will tell the story concurrently with the action.

REVEALS 3,780 BEING HELD IN AUSTRIAN JAILS

German Official Indicates Ousted Chancellor to Be Charged With Crime.

(By United Press)

VIENNA — Joseph Buerckel, German Nazi "trustee" for Austria, said today that he hoped and believed Kurt Schuschnigg, last chancellor of independent Austria, would be tried on criminal charges.

He disclosed that 3,780 political prisoners were held in Austrian jails.

Discussing at a press conference the status of Schuschnigg, who has been a prisoner since the Nazi absorption of Austria, Buerckel said: "Schuschnigg is in Vienna and in my opinion should be tried on criminal charges. Therefore I hope and believe he will be tried."

Denies Marriage Report.

Buerckel said also that recent reports that Schuschnigg had married Countess Vera Fugger by proxy were untrue.

The Nazi commissioner discussed in some detail the present state of things in Austria, which have caused reports that angered Nazis.

He said that all property which belonged to the Hapsburg family headed by Archduke Otto, pretender to the throne, had been confiscated.

As for political prisoners, he said that a total of 150 persons, of whom about half were Jews, had been sent to the great concentration camp at Dachau, Germany.

Discussing the Jewish question, Buerckel said that as regards their property in Austria foreign Jews would be treated exactly like other foreigners.

He said that instructions recently circulated in Vienna that Jewish employes of Jewish firms must be discharged were issued by subordinate officials who already had been disciplined for their action.

Before Buerckel made his statement a high Nazi party official had told the United Press that Schuschnigg had not been married.

"I am in a position to know and I can assure you that he is unmarried," this official said.

GEN. JOHNSON:

WPA Administrator Adds His Bit to Attempt to Keep New Deal in Power

—By HUGH S. JOHNSON

BETHANY BEACH, Del.—The ineffable Aubrey Williams, of WPA, tells relief workers that they should vote for "their friends." What he meant was clear, because he said it in applauding the President's fireside chat, which said the same thing less directly.

About the same time, WPA, which hasn't enough money to relieve ⅓ of the unemployed, made it harder to help the rest by restoring wage cuts and raising southern relief wages. That was to avoid the political embarrassment since the wages and hours bill permits no southern differentials, while WPA has always maintained very large ones. In the states of Oklahoma and Kentucky, where rubber-stamp senators are in danger, WPA wage increases were largest of all.

Thus it appears that the administration doesn't conceal that it is using relief money for political slush at the expense of the unemployed. It seems to be boasting about it to make it more effective. If it were clear that this is administration policy, more unfortunate people would be scared.

I say "apears," "seems" and "if," because our Aubrey ain't any too bright. Maybe he was just babbling. He holds that government should hire all the unemployed at regular industrial wages. But his only suggestion of how government is to get the money is to take it away from the "haves" to give to the "have-nots."

The annual cost of all government is now above 16 billions. That is 26⅔ per cent of the president's estimate of 60 billions of national income for this year. But we now collect only about 12 billions in taxes—20 per cent of this year's income.

Studies by the Twentieth Century fund indicate that the total tax bill of a man with $1,000 of income is about 20 per cent—mostly in hidden taxes. I have seen other careful separate studies of the tax element in the price of a set of cheap dining room furniture, a dollar-and-half shirt, a loaf of bread and a cheap automobile. Although each was an independent study, the result was remarkably constant—in each case approximately 10 per cent.

By far the bulk of Aubrey's money is coming from the poor. Relief workers and unemployed themselves are paying their 20 per cent of whatever they get—the very same 20 per cent that the total national income is nicked by the total tax bill.

That isn't taking away from the "haves" to give to the "have-nots." It isn't "sharing our wealth." It is simply assessing both "haves" and "have-nots" at an almost equal rate. It is distributing poverty—not wealth. It tends to "make everybody equal"—equally miserable. It is the principal bar to returning prosperity.

Rising debt and taxes should be the principal concern of people of every class. The unemployed must be relieved, but every bit of extravagance in their relief or in any other activity of government, is a curse to the whole community—rich and poor alike, and the poor more bitterly than the rich because the rich can still live well and the poor cannot.

The recent political uses of relief funds discussed in the beginning of this piece is plainly such an extravagance. Apart from its monstrous affront to decency and democracy, it adds to the rising burden of debt and taxes on all classes and deprives tens of thousands of necessary relief because it leaves less to go round. It should be rebuked by every voter, whether on relief or not.

This can be done without danger. Bulldozing vote-exploiting employers found that out in 1936. When a voter goes into the election booth, with the curtain drawn, he can vote as he pleases in spite of all previous attempted bribery and coercion. Nothing is now so important as to make that clear.

Hollywood Speaks---

By ROBBIN COON:

HOLLYWOOD—"Lord Jeff" is a persuasive story about the regeneration of a young man, is favorite theme of the Metro factory. As in "Captains Courageous," Freddie Bartholomew is the boy who learns his lesson.

Freddie's cunning and intelligence are used for a time by a pair of crooks. When he is caught and made a ward of the court, he is "sentenced" to one of the Barnardo homes, famous in England.

This one happens to be a school where young men are prepared for the merchant marine. One of the students is Mickey Rooney, who takes Freddie in tow. When Freddie tries to run away, Mickey goes after him, brings him back after a fight. The smart old bos'n, Herbert Mundin, realizes that Freddie has the makings of a great student and appoints him coxswain of the crew although the other boys are giving Freddie the chill. It takes a lot of excitment to reach the happy ending of Director Sam Wood's well-made picture.

Stand-out in the piece is a new lad, Terry Kilburn, son of a London bus driver, here playing his first screen part.

Smartest Kay Francis casting in years appears in "My Bill," recognizable as another version of Tom Barry's play "Courage." Kay is the widowed mother of a brood of four—Bonita Granville, Anita Louise, Bobby Jordan and Dickie Moore—in a small New England town. A poor manager but an unselfish mther, Kay sees her family broken by the intrusion of her husband's rich, snobbish sister Caroline (Elizabeth Risdon) who entices away all the children but Bill (Dickie Moore.) The film takes its warmth and color from the loyalty and devotion of this youngest child, and Dickie Moore, surrounded by a good cast, runs away with the starring honors.

John Litel is Kay's banker friend and ex-sweetheart with whom, after the triumphant and satisfying defeat of Aunt Caroline, she again finds romance. Helena Phillips Evans gives a nicely shaded characterization as crotchety Mrs. Crosby, neighbor of the "My Bill" tribe, John Farrow directed—and what Kay Francis needs is more "B" pictures like this one, with more Dickie Moores in support."

"Woman Against Woman" is a polite, well-acted, talkative consideration of the plight of a second wife whose husband takes her back to the small town where his first wife and child live. In this "enemy territory"—title of the Margaret Culkin Banning story which inspired the film—Virginia Bruce fights the good fight against the wiles of Mary Astor, finally defeats her, and wins Herbert Marshall permanently. Extra amusement is provided by Marjorie Rambeau and Zeffie Tilbury, with Janet Beecher as the mother-in-law and Juanita Quigley as the child. Robert B. Sinclair directed.

"When Were You Born?" mixes astrology and murder, very talkily because Anna May Wong has to expound so many theories. Manly P. Hall, Hollywood's premier exponent of life in the astral, wrote it, and Margaret Lindsay, Lola Lane and Anthony Averill are others concerned.

Popularity of Gene Stratton-Porter books has meant profits for Hollywood before, and will again for "Romance of the Limberlost." This is an adaptation of "Her Father's Daughter," locale shifted from California to Indiana. Jean Parker is the sweet girl in the sweet story, not for sophisticates, but aimed deftly at its own particular market.

Household Employe, Mistress Should Aim at Efficiency

AP Feature Service Writer

Inefficiency in household employes often is as much a reflection on the employer as it is on the employe.

Such inefficiency means the mistress used poor judgment in engaging the employe or she lacks in qualities necessary to the smooth operation of a household.

"There are two things every housewife must accomplish in her employes and workers," says Mrs. Richard Boardman, head of Scientific Housekeeping, an organization that has trained New York household employes for twenty years.

Double Salesmanship.

"The first is efficiency. The second is a permanent desire on the part of the employe to remain in her job

"The mistress must sell herself to her workers as well as the other way around," says Mrs. Boardman. "The prevailing attitude must be one of mutual interest.

She advises a thorough-going interview when engaging new employes. There must be no misunderstanding on these eleven points:

Location of the employer's home. Is it in the city or the country, a house or an apartment?

Duties. Will there be cooking, serving, cleaning and laundry—or is the laundry sent out?

References. No reference means much unless it's from someone known to the employer, although the latter should be able to judge fairly well if she has a personal talk with a former employer.

Salary.

Day off. That must be absolutely regular. Make it Saturday or Monday—if you don't like Thursday. But never break into it unless for an emergency.

How shall the newcomer address her mistress—"Madam" or "Mrs. Conklin?"

About Uniforms.

Uniform. Will it be required? If so, what type. If the salary is adequate, the maid should provide her own uniform. But if the mistress wants costly uniforms she should provide them. Under nearly all circumstances she should provide accessories such as collars, cuffs and headbands.

What kind of stove is provided for cooking?

Hours off duty. In many well-regulated households the hours between 2:30 and 4:30 in the afternoon are considered best.

Schedule of work.

It should be agreed that a two weeks' trial period shall be held—with employer or employe free to terminate the job then.

Note: The terms "maid" and "servant" are considered out of date. "Household employe" is much more satisfactory.

For country wear, Scotch tweeds in loud checks for toppers are popular with the juveniles.

Dotted veils tied under the chin are being used on the bonnet styles of hats for the youngsters.

GIVE FINAL PARTY TO HONOR MISS BRANDT

Bride-Elect Entertained at Linen Shower Given by Mrs. Romanchuck, Miss Dalton; Will Wed Late This Afternoon.

THE FINAL PARTY preceding her marriage, which will take place at 4:30 today at the First Methodist Episcopal church, was given last night in honor of Miss Helen Brandt. Hostesses for the affair were Mrs. Daniel Romanchuck and Miss Marguerite Dalton, 10 Columbia avenue.

A two-course luncheon was served at three tables lighted with tall tapers. A color scheme of pink and white was carried out in the decorations. Bridge was played and the prizes were awarded to Miss Marie Ellen Campbell and Miss Grace Spayde.

Gifts were presented to the honoree in a novel way. The articles for the linen shower were all arranged in a large basket which was concealed in the house. Streamers directed the bride-to-be to her gifts.

Miss Brandt, who will be the last June bride, will be married to Neil Cannon, son of Mrs. Martha Scheffel, Indianapolis, Ind., in an informal ceremony this afternoon. The bride-elect is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Brandt, sr., 125 West First street. Her engagement was announced recently at a party given by her mother and sister, Mrs. Paul Hoffman, at the family home.

Sterkels Return From Eucharistic Congress

Mrs Helen Sterkel and daughter, Miss Justine Sterkel, 14 Sturges avenue, have returned from a six weeks' European-Asiatic trip. Their first major stop was Budapest for the Eucharistic congress which was attended by more than a million persons. They witnessed the procession down the Danube river, which was the outstanding feature of the congress this year.

They took a Mediterranean cruise and later spent a week in the Holy Land, stopping in Greece en route. They also visited Sicily and other Mediterranean islands.

They left New York on the S. S. Rex and returned on the Vulcania. After arriving in New York harbor they were fog bound for 24 hours, lying just outside the city.

Style Whimsies

The tunic length suit jacket is the newest and narrowest of all the new suits. It may be buttoned straight up the front or be loose and boxy.

The cool, dark shoe, either of fabric or mesh, is to retain its popularity this year. For wear with dark town costumes, it is shown in navy, black, dark brown and dark red.

Misses Courtney Have Two Division Sessions

Two divisions, Two and Three, of the Aid society of the First United Presbyterian church were entertained by the Misses Grace, Katharine and Flosse Courtney, Marion avenue, yesterday. Each division conducted a routine business meeting and a social hour followed with a buffet luncheon being served by the hostesses.

Mrs. Martha Russell, Chicago, Ill., was a guest of the 20 members present. The groups will both meet again July 27 with Mrs. Fred Proctor as hostess to Division Three and Mrs. William Shane entertaining Division Two.

Soiled Hose, Grooming Reveal Homelessness

Modern girls have established their reputations for being well groomed so thoroughly that nowadays city detectives spot runaways by the state of their clothing. That is what Detective Charles E. Meyer of New York City's missing persons bureau told a radio audience recently.

"There are several ways I can spot the runaway girl," he said. "One is by her stockings. You know, most girls are immaculately clean and neat regardless of their financial situation, and even if they have only one pair of stockings they rinse them out carefully before they go to bed at night and hang them over a towel rack to dry. So, when I see a girl with stockings that are soiled and crumpled around the ankles I figure it's because she has no place to wash.

"Stockings are only one inkling, of course. I also watch for the state of a girl's hair and fingernails. If in addition to dirty stockings her hair is a mess and her nails are dirty it's another sign that she may be homeless."

Asks How To Prevent False Stories

By VIRGINIA LEE

One of my correspondents has been engaged to a certain young man. She accepted his ring more out of pity than love, she says. His family is very nice, but the boy himself works with others who drink to excess, and when he has had a few drinks he becomes "sullen and sarcastic." Her father advised her to break the engagement, but the youth won't stay put. He comes to her home frequently, hoping she will take him back.

He is very jealous and if he gets an idea this young woman is interested in any other man or hears their names linked, he seeks the person out and tells stories about the girl which are far from the truth. Recently he has shown jealousy of a new girl friend of the woman he claims to love, and is now telling lies about her which my correspondent fears will harm her reputation.

Deserves Thrashing.

"What can I do to prevent him from making a good girl lose her reputation and from making him turn friends against me?"

You cannot keep this man from talking, of course, my dear, but do you suppose he will be believed? He deserves a good thrashing, and possibly if your father or brothers administered it it might help. Such bullies usually are cowards. However, that seems like "doing evil that good may come."

I think the only thing you can do is to have it definitely understood among your friends and acquaintances that your engagement is at an end, and that anything he may say about you is said out of pique and spite. If his jealous spite includes this young woman who is not well known and whose reputation he may smirch, maybe it would be well not to see so much of her until this affair blows over.

No wonder you could not really love such a character. Too bad you encouraged him and even accepted his ring. He seems to be about as low-down a specimen of humanity as one is likely to meet in a lifetime. I don't believe such a person can permanently hurt the reputation of a girl who is known to be good and who has a good family background.

Bran Muffins.

Three tablespoons shortening, one-fourth cup sugar, one egg, one and one-half cups milk, one cup bran, three-fourths cup corn meal, one and one-half cups flour, one teaspoon salt, four and one-half teaspoons baking powder. Cream shortening and sugar thoroughly; add egg, beat until creamy. Add milk, bran and corn meal. Let soak until most of moisture is taken up. Sift flour, salt and baking powder together; add to first mixture, stirring only until flour disappears. Fill greased muffin pans two-thirds full and bake in moderately hot oven (400 degrees F.) about 30 minutes. This makes 14 muffins (two and one-half inches in diameter) or 12 muffins (three inches in diameter).

Bolero Jacket Popular for Charming Teen-Age Model.

By MARIAN MARTIN

Gayest of the gay, newest of the new, is Pattern 9704. The fewest possible seams—yet it's immensely attractive, and right for every moment of a 'teenster's day, all summer long! Look how cleverly the built-up waist follows the curve taken by the jolly little bolero (which will look nice with other dresses too). Picture yourself in this sweetheart of a summer holiday frock—with neckline high or square cut—and ric-rac braid decorating both dress and bolero. Fabric choice, like the making, is easy. A peasant print or floral cotton for everyday, a silk print for "best."

Pattern 9704 may be ordered only in junior and misses' sizes 10, 12, 14, 16 and 18. Size 14 requires 3⅛ yards 36 inch fabric, and 5¼ yards ric-rac.

BE SURE TO STATE SIZE

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

SHUN IT LIKE POISON

HOPES OF the declarer are sometimes very transparent. No clairvoyant ability is needed at all to tell that he would rather have you lead a certain suit to him than try leading it himself. If such is the case, your job is to avoid that suit as a rodent would duck "Rough-on-Rats." Lead anything else in preference.

North and South reached a contract of 4-Spades on this deal and West started the defense by leading the diamond Q. Declarer won this with the K and cashed his two top spades. When the Q failed to drop, South lost hope of making the contract, for he had one sure loser in trumps, one in diamonds and two in clubs, as well as a possible heart.

West, however, aided the declarer by a poor play which made the game possible. On the second spade lead, West signaled a club. South then gave up a trick to East's high trump, whereupon the club 4 was returned. Now West led the heart 2, which was exactly what South hoped for. The 3 was played from dummy, East put on the 8 and South won with the 9. The heart A dropped the K and the two other hearts cashed, one providing a spot for the losing club. West's contention was that he did not return a club because after his signal his partner should have played the K, but that was no excuse for West to open up a new suit for the declarer.

COLONIAL SANDWICHES—One cream cheese, cream, salt, canned pimentoes, paprika. Mash cheese and moisten with cream. Season with salt and paprika. Work until smooth, then add one-fourth the quantity of canned pimentoes, finely chopped. Spread mixture between thin slices of bread. Cut in any shape desired.

If apples or tomatoes are pricked with a fork before they are baked, they will not break open while cooking.

Leg Defects Can Be Corrected

By JULIET SHELBY

Central Press Writer on Beauty

EVERY LEG defect that mortal is heir to will be glaringly apparent if you plan to go in for shorts or bathing suits this season. Don't be discouraged though, for even the seemingly serious handicaps, such as bowed legs and knock knees can be corrected through exercise. So make beautiful legs your ambition, even if your only trouble is too plump knees.

Today this department is going to give exercises for the three above-mentioned faults, so if you are feeling badly enough about any one of the problems to work daily at your exercises—you can start reshaping your legs immediately.

The first exercise will reduce fatty pads on the knees and also the inner thigh. Sit on the floor with your legs bent outward and the soles of your feet together. Place your hands on the fatty pad on the inside of your knee and rock sideways on your hips, pressing your knees down as you rock. Rock 10 times and rest. Then repeat the exercise. Next take the same starting position as before, except the arms. Reach straight forward with your arms as far as you can reach. Then place your hands back on your hips on the mat and lift your hips upward keeping your knees apart and letting your head fall backward. Lower your hips and again extend your hands forward. Do this six times and rest. To get results you should do these exercises both night and morning. Don't expect to see a change immediately, but keep working and after several weeks you will be gratified at the results.

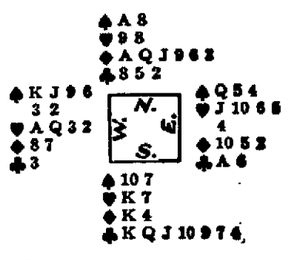
For Knock-Knees.

The following is the exercise for knock-knees: Stand erect with your heels together and your toes pointing straight ahead. Now, without moving your feet, tense your knees and force them out at the sides. Hold this for a second and then relax, then tense the muscles again. Repeat this at least 30 times and do the exercises as often as you can during the day. Be sure to keep your heels together while you are doing this routine.

The last exercise is for bowed legs. If you happen to be 18 years old or under, you stand a very excellent chance of entirely correcting this defect, and even if you are older bowed legs can be vastly improved by these movements. Stand erect with your heels together and your toes pointing straight ahead. Without moving your feet, tense your knees and try to force them together. Hold this for a second, relax and again tense the muscles. Repeat this 30 times and do it as often during the day as you can.

Larkspurs sometimes have an unpleasant way of disappearing in the course of the summer, especially if the season is wet. They suffer, too, from slugs, but may be saved from these pests by spreading wood ashes on the ground at the base of the plants. If the leaves turn back, it is a sign that black spot has arrived, and it will be necessary to immediately remove the affected foliage and then spray with some preparation which is effective and does not stain the foliage.

Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable).

What is the correct defense against South's 5-Clubs contract after the lead of the club 3?

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

When my mother-in-law dons a martyr's crown, there is nothing to be done save accept it with the best grace possible and wait until it pleases her to take it off again. Any attempt to placate her only fixes it the more firmly upon her brow.

With this knowledge, born of much past experience, in mind, I did not try to change her averred determination to wait for me to come to the table, even if I did not get there until after Katie should announce dinner. I simply said hurriedly:

"I'll be down in a minute, I'm sure," and sped up the stairs as rapidly as possible. At the top I dallied with the notion of speeding as rapidly down the back stairs to tell Katie to hold her announcement of dinner until I should come down again. But I put it aside as quickly. If my mother-in-law were not actually holding a stop watch upon my faithful housekeeper, she was watching the time almost as quickly, and any delay upon Katie's part beyond the ten minutes she had named would recoil upon her devoted head, not mine.

Secret Safe.

Bill! That was my first thought, for he had been the reason for my coming upstairs, not my hands, which I knew were in no need of extra ablutions, as I had pretended to my mother-in-law. I did not wish either Hank or Dicky to guess that I had talked to him about going to the city with Hank, and when I saw him open the door of the room he shared with his brother, and look cautiously up and down the corridor before emerging, I knew that our secret was safe so far.

His face lighted up as he saw me, but I put my finger to my lips, and he did not speak as he came noiselessly toward me along the hall.

"It's all right, Bill," I told him in a whisper as he came up to me. "I don't think Hank is back from the Ticers yet."

"Yes, he is," he replied. "I just saw him drive into the yard. That's the reason I was hurrying out."

"Did you get everything done?" I whispered hurriedly.

"Everything's all ready," he whispered back, "and I've fixed it so he'll never suspect a thing. When you give me the word about going, I'll tell him I'll pack for both of us."

"All right," I murmured hurriedly, for I heard Hank's voice in the hall downstairs. "Go down quickly now. Dinner's about ready. You can wash up in the lavatory down there if you need to."

"I need to, all right," he returned, looking ruefully at his hands. "Our bags were dusty."

Hank's voice was audible from the foot of the stairs now, calling, "Bill! Dinner!" and I pointed silently to the general bathroom.

"Wash up in there," I whispered. "Then he can't notice your hands. But answer him first."

"Here I am!" Bill called. "Wait a second, can't you? I'll be right down."

Mother Graham Upset.

"You'd better be," Hank said. "Dinner's on the table, and we're all starving."

"Be there in two seconds," Bill called back, and indeed he was right behind me when I went down the stairs and on to the library where Mother Graham was sitting bolt upright in her chair, shaking her head at Dicky's insistence that she go into the dining room and not wait for me.

"Indeed, I shall do no such thing," she said. "In an emergency I will always take Margaret's place, but I hope I have a proper sense of what is fitting upon ordinary occasions. Dinner should not be served unless the mistress of the house is present."

"And accounted for," Dicky said, giving me a sly wink over his mother's head which almost upset my risibles. "Well, as it happens, here the lady is in person. Madge, do you know that you have delayed dinner for at least 90 seconds?"

He spoke with pretended rebuke in his tones, and my heart sank as I saw his mother stiffen at the levity which she evidently thought was directed at her.

"I do not care to be subject of jest, my son," she said in her stateliest manner, and Dicky slipped his arm about her contritely.

"You know me better than that, Mother dear," he said in his "coaxingest" manner. "But there's another culprit needing the switch," he added in an attempt to divert her attention from his unlucky slip. "Where is Katrina?"

Learn Correct Table Manners Quickly.

Table Manners Are So Important.

Whose hands are these?
Not YOURS we hope—
That hang themselves
With little rope.

Everyone knows the old saying, "Give him rope enough and he'll hang himself."

And so it is with the unlucky dinner guest who "hangs" herself socially as soon as she sits down to the table. Her clothes and conversation are faultless but her hands betray her.

Greedily she tilts the soup plate toward her at right angles to the table to capture the last drop. It's permissible to tip a soup plate away from you slightly, but not to stand it on end.

With ruthless efficiency, she carves a whole serving of meat into small bits instead of cutting one mouthful at a time. And she puts salt for celery on the tablecloth instead of on a plate.

Why run the risk of table manners that offend? Follow complete easy rules of table etiquette in our 32-page booklet.

HOROSCOPE

For Friday, July 1.

Mighty expanding and progressive planetary influences make this a day of major operations and important objectives. It is a time for pushing with might and main in the direction of cherished ambitions with confidence and initiative. A general readjustment and reorientation of the affairs may be necessary in order to take advantage of unusual opportunities, especially where "big business," mergers or political or secret organizations are involved.

Those whose birthday it is may be assured of a year of major events, with much occurring of farreaching importance in advancing a progressive and productive career. Big business, especially with mergers, rings, secret organizations or political bodies, with understandings concocted behind the scenes, may assist to high goals.

A child born on this day may be large minded, expansive and generous in its impulses, adventurous and indomitable in attaining its bold aims and purposes.

A good food to serve for Sunday tea can be made by placing sliced tomatoes, bacon strips and slices of cheese on slices of buttered bread. When baked in a moderate oven a very tasty dish results.

Don't have anything else in the oven when you plan to bake a cake and place cake as near the center of oven as possible.

Fifty Million Frenchmen Can't be Wrong

"But Over Fifty Million Americans Are Going To Catch a Common Cold This Year and That's a Big Wrong," Says the World's Tonic Man

We are not so sure about the Frenchmen but we are sure about the fifty million Americans catching cold this year. Medical authority has assured us that it is true. In fact, over fifty per cent, or every other person in the country is slated for a visit from the cold menace this year. We are speaking of common colds. When these common colds hang on, they may develop into grippe, influenza or pneumonia but that is another story. If you avoid the common cold you don't have to worry about getting these other serious diseases because of it.

These common cold germs are going to look you over. You'll breathe them in when on trains, at the movies, in offices and even in your own home. But you have something to say about whether they go to work on you or not. They must dig in to do any work and that what you should prevent. Keep them moving. Make sure your intestinal tract is kept open.

World's Tonic has been praised by thousands for its aid and relief in intestinal tract clogging situations. This relief is a laxative value in common cold prevention that your doctor will recognize at once. One of his first questions in treatment will be in effect, "Is your intestinal tract functioning regularly?" So don't wait for danger signs. Play safe. Get World's Tonic today and let its laxative values help keep you from becoming one of the every other persons in America to catch a common cold this year.

In keeping with the above Mrs. Beulah Mesexim, of 2753-6th St., Cuyahoga Falls, Ohio, says:

"I've been constipated for several years and because of this I was pretty badly run down. I had a lot of trouble with my food and went through some bad sieges of indigestion suffering. I'd catch cold (common colds) from the slightest draft and bad headaches and sneezing spells would come on. I've been using World's Tonic now for a couple of months and my constipation problem is practically done away with. I never miss a day, and some days I have more than one movement. I've only had one slight cold in the last month and that didn't last. World's Tonic is a fine medicine and I am always going to keep it on hand."

Note Mrs. Mesexim's reference to World's Tonic laxative aid in common cold prevention.

World's Tonic contains valuable alkalines for neutralizing acids (Acid indigestion) and is not an old fashioned nasty tasting medicine.
